U.N. Shelves Cuban Proposals

Rejection By United States Deemed Certain

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Acting Secretary-General U Thant was reported Wednesday to have shelved temporarily new Soviet-Cuban proposals for settling the Cuban crisis. A U.N. spokesman said Thant acted at the request of the two countries.

The proposals were not presented to the United States—apparently because they faced certain rejection. Secrecy surrounded the exact nature of the proposals, but they were described as based on previous demands by Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro for U.S. withdrawal of the naval base at Guantanamo and an end to U.S. economic and political pressures against Castro.

In Washington a State Department spokesman denied that such proposals had been made to Thant. Informed of this, a U.N. spokesman reiterated that they had been delivered to Thant Tuesday by Cuba and the Soviet Union, and that the secretary-general was told by the two countries not to forward them to the United States yet.

Believed Unacceptable

Diplomats speculated that Thant had felt that the proposals in their original form were bound to be unacceptable to the United States. They said that in the event the Soviet Union and Cuba persisted he would have no other choice than to forward them.

These developments came as the United States stressed to Thant its desire for a speedy settlement of the crisis. The spokesman for Thant reported some progress, but basic U.S. and Soviet positions appeared unchanged.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson conferred with Thant for an hour and 45 minutes and later told newsmen: "I am hopeful that we can solve the problem, but this would be a triumph of hope over experience."

The word in Washington and here was that the United States was still insisting upon three immediate objectives—removal of more than 24 Soviet jet bombers from Cuba, adequate verification of removal of all offensive weapons, and arrangements for keeping new weapons from arriving in Cuba.

Major Concession

Soviet sources said they regarded the removal of 42 Soviet missiles under U.S. naval inspection as the major concession and it is now up to President Kennedy to pledge that the United States will not invade Cuba.

The firm U.S. attitude in the crisis was demonstrated further in Washington with the statement by a spokesman for the U.S. State Department that any buildup of offensive naval facilities in Cuba would be regarded as a threat to the Western Hemisphere.

With plans in suspension for inspection of Cuba-bound shipping by the International Committee of the Red Cross, attention centered on the continuing U.S. naval arms blockade.

Adenauer Lauds JFK Stand In Cuba Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany were reported Wednesday night in agreement that the Cuban issue must be resolved before any new Western initiative for settling other cold war disputes — including Berlin.

Both leaders agreed there would be times afterward to review other East-West conflicts and decide what moves to make toward erasing them, U.S. officials said.

Cuba—along with the Germany-Berlin question—was a major topic at morning and afternoon sessions at the White House between Kennedy, Adenauer and their top aides.

At a luncheon, Adenauer told Kennedy that the American stand on Cuba was a great success for America and a failure for Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Last Monday, before leaving for America, Adenauer had voiced great skepticism about reports that the Soviets were removing their missiles from Cuba. He said the Cuban crisis was far from over.

Change In Tone
There was no indication of what caused Adenauer's change in tone. Adenauer has been wary of any Western initiative towards negotiating a Berlin settlement which he feels might weaken the Western position there. Kennedy has been focusing on getting Russian offensive weapons out of Cuba as the immediate prime objective of U.S. foreign policy.

At the luncheon, Kennedy assured Adenauer that he still sees close ties between Germany and the United States as the strongest insurance for the defense of Europe and America. There has been some feeling in West German government circles that the Kennedy regime is much cooler toward Germany than the Eisenhower administration was.

The change in Adenauer's view toward a calming of the Cuban crisis was foreshadowed earlier in the day when he said the United States had "rendered an invaluable service to the freedom of the world" by accepting the Soviet challenge.

Praises U.S.
Adenauer made the comment Wednesday in responding to Kennedy's official welcome as the two met to try and determine how the outcome of the Cuban crisis influenced Moscow's thinking about Berlin.

Their views are not identical, officials said. Kennedy is reported to believe that his firm stand convinced the Soviets that the United States means it when it says America will not flinch in Berlin. The German leader was said to doubt that the Kremlin has understood the message.

Welcomed By JFK
Adenauer arrived Tuesday night. At midmorning Wednesday, he was welcomed by Kennedy with the traditional pomp due a head of government on the south lawn of the White House.

The two leaders and their top aides were scheduled to have two conferences.

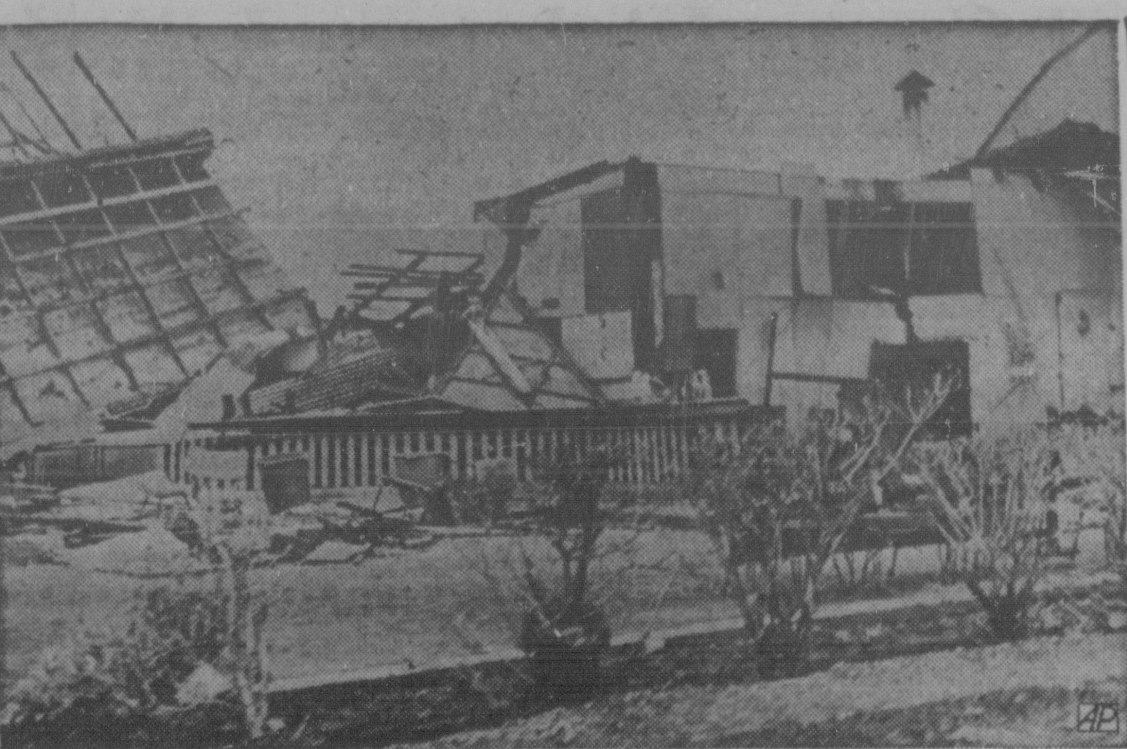

No agenda was prepared, officials said. Experience of earlier meetings — this is the third between them since Kennedy became president — showed that neither the U.S. chief executive nor Germany's leader is willing to observe a schedule prepared by specialists.

Kennedy and Adenauer had been expected to spend 10 minutes alone in their first meeting before joining their foreign ministers and other aides. But they did not emerge from the President's office until after an hour with only interpreters present.

The talks will not lead to hard decisions on what, if anything the West should do now concerning Berlin, in the wake of Cuba, officials cautioned.

Some Speculation
They said there is no crystallized view in Washington either. Some specialists are advocating that this is the time for the West to grab the initiative from the Soviet Union, while others argue that nothing indicates a change in Moscow's determination to squeeze the West from Berlin.

Besides Berlin, specialists have prepared papers on several subjects for Kennedy to discuss with Adenauer.

Federal Transportation Tax To End At Midnight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 10 per cent federal tax on rail, bus and boat fares will pass out of existence at midnight Thursday and a similar levy on air fares will be cut in half. As a result, travelers can expect to save nearly $150 million a year.

The Eastern railroads and some bus lines will boost their fares to offset the tax change. But all air fares will remain at current levels, at least for the present. As a result of the tax changes, the government will incur a revenue loss of about $170 million a year. Savings to the public will be less, however, because of partially offsetting fare increases.

The tax was first imposed during World War II to raise revenues and at the same time discourage nonessential use of over-loaded transportation facilities.

Kept On Books

It was kept on the books long after the war because it was a potent producer of income. Receipts from the passenger fare tax have totaled nearly $4.5 billion since 1941.

While the tax on rail, bus and boat travel will be completely eliminated, the 10 per cent air travel tax will be replaced by a 5 per cent federal "user charge." This maneuver is designed to help the government recoup some of its investment in airports, navigation aids and other facilities used by the airlines.

Railroads with big deficits on passenger operations now have an opportunity to replace the 10 per cent tax with higher fares that will improve their financial position.

To date, the 23 Eastern roads and the Chicago & North Western Railway have announced they will take advantage of the opportunity. The C&NW said its increase will apply only to coach travel.

ICC Sympathetic

A sympathetic Interstate Commerce Commission has made no move to prevent the fare increases, although opponents still may appeal for action to block them.

Southern and Western rail lines, with a better profit position, apparently intend to pass along the full tax savings to their patrons. Among bus lines, some major carriers will hike their fares while others, equally large, intend to retain present charges. Altogether about 50 bus lines have announced increases ranging from 2 to 10 per cent, generally timed to coincide with expiration of the tax.

Some of the big transcontinental carriers, like Greyhound and Trailways, have made no move to raise fares.

None of the major airlines has asked the Civil Aeronautics Board for permission to raise fares to offset the tax reduction.

India Names New Defense Minister

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru got a dynamic new defense minister and 148 pounds of gold for the Himalayan war effort on his 73rd birthday Wednesday.

The new defense minister is Y. B. Chavan, 48, who has a record as an able and imaginative administrator as chief minister of Maharashtra State of which Bombay is the capital. President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan appointed him.

Chavan takes over a post Nehru himself had handled in the 15-day interval since it was vacated by the controversial V. K. Krishna Menon under charges that Menon failed to prepare India's defenses against Red China's attack.

The 148 pounds of gold—Nehru's weight plus two pounds for good measure—were presented by Punjab State in the major event of a birthday observance which drew an estimated 50,000 persons to his home.

The gold, worth $62,160 at world prices, is to go into the national defense fund to help carry on the fight against Red China's invasion. But it's a multimillion-dollar war.

Finance Minister Moraji Desai asked Parliament for $199.5 million to meet increased costs of the armed forces. The regular appropriation for the fiscal year ending next March 31 is $715 million.

Parliament authorized institution of a state of emergency—a modified form of martial law—and completed passage of a resolution dedicating the Indian people "to drive out the aggressor from the sacred soil of India, however long and hard the struggle may be."

Bitter Cold

Bitter temperatures gripped the mountain battle lines. A Defense Ministry spokesman said it was about zero in the east and 30 below at Chushul airfield of Ladakh the west.

The battle lines have been relatively stagnant since the Red Chinese offensive of late October. The Red Chinese seized about 2,000 square miles of territory in that offensive and killed or captured about 2,000 Indian soldiers. The Defense Ministry figure for the killed and missing is "less than 2,500."

Nehru closed debate on the defense resolution with a long speech on the war situation. Applause swept the chamber when he entered. He looked fatigued.

Vatican Council Shaken

VATICAN CITY (AP)—A basic theological issue shook the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council and opened Wednesday what appeared to be a wide split in the worldwide assembly of bishops. It also posed a question for Christian unity.

Brought before the 2,200 council fathers in St. Peter's was a draft constitution that would give new doctrinal emphasis in answering the question: Where is the revealed word of God found? Cardinals expressed varying opinions in the council's secret session.

Some favored it, some opposed it, and others asked that it be completely revised, the council press office said, without disclosing exactly who said what.

Apparently there was some concern about putting into writing—at this time when efforts are being made to bring Christians closer together—something that has long been accepted in Roman Catholicism but not in Protestantism. This is the general Roman Catholic view that two sources—scripture and tradition—are equally important sources of the revealed word.

Through the centuries the Church has viewed tradition as inspired word not found in the gospels but handed down by word of mouth. Church teachings have been formulated on both the scriptures and this tradition.

Some Protestants accept only the written word. Most consider tradition a source of divine truth, but give priority to scripture and believe the insights developed through tradition must be rooted in scripture.

Some Catholics also consider scripture the primary source of Christian truth. Tension over this point has been evident in Catholic theological writings in recent years.

Free World Organization Is Proposed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Henry Cabot Lodge proposed Wednesday night a permanent free world organization consistently capable of the "timely and effective common action" against Communist threats which he said was achieved through President Kennedy's leadership in the Cuban missile crisis.

The free world's greatest single lack "is a capacity for timely and effective common action," declared Lodge, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations in the Eisenhower administration.

"We took such action in the recent Cuban crisis, and the President deserves great credit for his handling of it," Lodge said in an address prepared for a dinner of the English-Speaking Union.

Lodge suggested the coalition he proposed adopt a name such as "The Confederation of the Free."

Prince Philip Speaks
Prince Philip, husband of Britain's Queen Elizabeth II, called Lodge's "grand design a useful signpost to the future" in his address prepared for the dinner.

"The immediate problems of nations to make out how communities of nations can be made to work in practice," Prince Philip said.

Lodge, Republican vice-presidential candidate in 1960, has served a year as director-general of the Atlantic Institute. He said the institute's major purpose is to find practical ways to create a capacity for unified action by the free world.

Lodge said Soviet Premier Khrushchev had been astounded by the support given the United States in the Cuban crisis by Britain and other North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies and by Latin American nations.

Lodge said the 12 days he spent with Khrushchev on the Soviet leader's 1959 tour of the United States warranted this judgment. "Certainly he bases his international conduct much more on his belief in our free world divisions than in his confidence in his own strength."

U.S. Warns Soviet: 'No Naval Bases In Cuba'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States warned the Soviet Union on Wednesday not to build a naval base in Cuba that would threaten the Western Hemisphere.

State Department spokesman Lincoln White said that if it did, "I would assume appropriate measures would be taken."

White issued a statement, and later answered questions, on reports that U.S. aerial reconnaissance has spotted naval facilities at a fishing harbor at Banes in northeast Cuba.

The statement, noting the Soviet Union and Cuba have signed an agreement to build a fishing harbor in the Banes area, said in part: "Now, we are aware that the so-called fishing ports could be built at a number of locations, including Banes."

SS Parley Scheduled Nov. 28-29

SUNDAY School superintendents, teachers and officers were honored guests of the Monroe County Sunday School Association recently at a dinner at the Middle Smithfield Presbyterian Church.

President, Warren W. Godshall, announced the forthcoming 67th Sunday School Convention to be held in the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church, Nov. 28 and 29 at 8 p. m.

The theme for this year's conference is "For Times Like These, The Sunday School."

The speaker for the convention will be Rev. Philip Everett Worth, pastor of the First Methodist Church, Collingswood, N. J. He attended Wheaton College, The King's College, School of Theology of Temple University, and the Graduate School of Theology of Temple University.

Rev. Worth is also the recipient of the "Pastor of the Year Award" in 1959 by the Philadelphia Area Sunday School Association.

Rev. Worth also will speak at the Philadelphia Area Sunday School Convention.

The Fellowship Dinner will convene on Thursday night, Nov. 29 at 6 p. m. All persons interested in attending, are urged to make their reservations early by calling 421-3280.

All superintendents, teachers, officers, and persons engaged in Sunday School work are invited to attend the meetings.

Optimism On Wall Street Front

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—General optimism has replaced the view in Wall Street that the stock market's smart rally might prove only a temporary respite from a downhill slide in prices.

There is increased talk of a continued climb, interrupted now and then by a pause to consolidate gains.

Goodbody & Co., for example, is advising investors that if profit taking is absorbed around present levels further strength probably will carry the market substantially higher.

The brokerage firm observed that before Wednesday's advance the Dow-Jones industrial average had, mostly in the last two weeks, regained 45 per cent of what it had lost since last spring.

An analyst for Hemphill, Noyes & Co., Harold Clayton, figured out from the first of the year through Oct. 31 stock prices skidded about 25 per cent.

Clayton calculated the dollar loss of 1,121 New York Stock Exchange issues at $86 billion in market value.

The resurgent optimism of brokers increasingly is based on a new and more favorable appraisal of prospects of the economy for 1958.

Typifying this reversal from widespread predictions of a recession early next year—an attitude that prevailed until recent days, were these observations:

Leslie M. Pollack, A. M. Kidder & Co.—"The growing suspicion that next year is not going to see a recession is contributing to the optimistic feeling now prevalent."

Sidney B. Lurie, Josephthal & Co.—"There is growing support for my conviction that the next major move in the business index is likely to be up."

Walter Retains Ranking

TWO Pennsylvania Democrats will retain House committee chairmanships — Congressmen Francis E. (Tad) Walter, Easton, Un-American Activities, and Thomas E. Morgan, Fredericktown, Foreign Affairs. Congressman Walter also is second-ranking Democrat on the Judiciary Committee.

Walter will be starting his 16th consecutive term in January.

Congressman Daniel J. Flood, of Luzerne County, advances from 19th to 17th in rank among Democrats on the House Appropriations Committee when he begins his eighth term in January. Congressman William H. Milliken, Jr., Sharon Hill, will jump from 19th to 15th in rank among Republicans.

Woman Jams Gas Instead Brake, Rams Dress Shop

STROUDSBURG police investigated a one car accident yesterday at 1:45 p. m. on Main St. The driver was injured, treated at the scene and then went home.

Police said Mrs. Elizabeth M. Fletcher, 55, of 535 Rosemont Ave., Stroudsburg, was proceeding west on Main St. and attempted to swing into a parking place in front of Jere's Shop, 764 Main St. Her foot slipped off the brake and jammed the gas pedal.

The car ran over the parking meter, across the sidewalk, struck a step and smashed the plate glass window of the shop.

Mrs. Fletcher received two broken teeth, a cut mouth and a lacerated knee. She was treated on the scene by Dr. John Lim.

Damage to the car was estimated at $750 and property damage estimated, $350.

Police will continue the investigation today.

Firemen Start Own Fires

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Some members of a private fire department in the Nashville area like riding the fire truck so much they set fires to suburban barns and turned in false alarms, authorities reported.

Two young men and four teenagers have been arrested and six or eight other persons are likely to be arrested later, said Dr. James D. Pope, owner of the private Tusculum fire and police department.

John Knowles, deputy fire marshal, quoted several of the youths as saying they would rush back to the fire hall after setting the fires, in order to answer the fire calls.

Losing Money

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—Kenya is losing money because it is regarded as high-risk area by companies which insure movie stars says Arvind Jamidar, minister of tourism. He said high insurance premiums prompted one company to cancel most location shots in Kenya. He estimated that this decision cost Kenya $700,000.

of $109 fine and costs on charges of illegal possession. They were arrested by John Spencer of Mt. Pocono, area game protector, and the fines were levied at a hearing before Samuel C. Everett, Barrett Township justice of the peace.

4-County Vet 'Voice' Contest Set

ROBERT Hachtman, district chairman for the Voice of Democracy contest, told members of Thomas P. Lambert Post 2540, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at a meeting Tuesday night that there will be a four-county contest this year.

Hachtman said letters have been sent to schools in Monroe, Pike, Northampton and Carbon Counties, asking their cooperation in the annual contest.

Winners will receive a total of $12,500 in scholarship prizes plus an expenses paid trip to Washington, D. C.

Howard Doll, chairman, reported that the past commander's and past president's banquet was a success and George Straka reported 270 members have renewed their dues for 1963.

Letters of thanks were received from Stroud Union and East Stroudsburg Area Joint High Schools for VFW participation in Veterans Day programs and from the Lambert Cadets, Junior drum and bugle corps, for the post flag recently presented to it.

It was announced that the state convention will be held in Harrisburg in July.

Violence-Marked Teamsters Set To Vote On Leadership

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — From 8,000 to 10,000 members of Teamsters Local 107 this week settle a year-long struggle for leadership of the labor group — a struggle marked often by violence.

They vote, starting Thursday and through Sunday, to decide who shall lead the local. Results of the election—ordered by the National Labor Relations Board — will be announced shortly thereafter.

Portions of teamsters Local 470 in Philadelphia, 312 in Chester, Pa., and 331 in Atlantic City, N. J., also will be affected by the outcome.

At issue is whether the present leadership continues to guide the giant local, or whether leaders of a dissident element, known as "The Voice of the Teamsters," takes the reins.

Voice leaders say if they win they'll take the local back into the AFL-CIO. The Teamsters International Union was expelled from the AFL-CIO in 1957, on charges of corruption in its leadership.

Bargaining Agent
The winners—the present leadership or Voice leaders—will begin shortly bargaining with the Motor Transport Labor Relations Incorporated—a bargaining agent for some 300 trucking firms employing Local 107 members. The present contract expires Dec. 31.

Leader of the local now is Raymond Cohen, 55, of Brigantine, N. J., who, along with some other officers, have been indicted on charges of conspiracy to loot the local's treasury. Cohen is the local's secretary-treasurer.

Charles Meyer, 35, of Philadelphia, is the leader of the Voice of the Teamsters. Besides the Voice of the Teamsters, there is another dissident group, the Local 107 Betterment Committee. That group, led by Edward P. McCormick, has been active about four years, and is trying to elect its members to positions of leadership. It does not, however, advocate leaving the teamsters and re-joining the AFL-CIO.

Clashes between local members and those in the voice group occur frequently. As a result, U.S. Atty. Gen Robert F. Kennedy, personally has asked Philadelphia police to insure against violence at the election.

Governor-Elect Scranton's Promise:

Thousands Of Persons Face Loss Of State Jobs

HOBE SOUND, Fla. (AP) — Thousands of persons on the state payroll will be fired Jan. 15 when Republican William W. Scranton succeeds Democrat David L. Lawrence as governor, Scranton said Wednesday.

"Those holding state jobs for purely political purposes will go right away," the governor-elect told newsmen during a conference at his work-and-play vacation in his exclusive Jupiter Island home here.

"This particularly applies to the 2,500 who were hired during the last six weeks of the campaign. . . . We are now making a department-by-department survey and when this is completed we will know more about what we can do."

Assumes Leadership
Scranton, still a Republican congressman on the federal payroll, also disclosed plans for reorganization of the Republican party in the Keystone State with himself as the leader.

"I think the governor should be the party leader and provide its leadership," Scranton declared. "There is sentiment in the party since the election to have the leadership come from the governor."

"The governor's job is two-fold. He is head of the state government and head of the political party he represents. He should take the leadership in both cases." Scranton said, however, the fact he is going to take control of the GOP, doesn't necessarily mean he wants Republican state chairman George I. Bloom to quit.

Scranton said he would like to see the party have a year-round program with an annual budget of $300,000 and the state chairman getting between $25,000 and $40,000.

Permanent Staff
"I would like money enough on a year-round basis for a permanent staff, particularly for research, organization, public relations and liaison between the county organizations and state headquarters," Scranton said. "At the present time we don't have such an organization. Ohio does, and I think this is the primary reason for the consistent success in Ohio."

Furthermore, Scranton said he hopes to remake the party's image in the state into one of unity, progress and vitality.

Defining progress, he said, it "is bound up essentially in the following things: economic progress, social progress and one which I believe is badly needed

Icelanders, now numbering 180,000, are descendants of the blonde-eyed Norsemen who settled in the 9th Century.

in America, and that is progress in the art of government."

Atomic Power History

Do you want to learn how to produce electricity most effectively from the atom? To start with, you'd better have $700 million to spend. That is the sum budgeted for an effort to produce low-cost atomic power. It involves 24 development projects, in which some 120 investor-owned light and power companies are participating.

At the beginning, a good many people misunderstood the significance of atomic power. They thought that, in a comparatively brief period of time, it would make all the other sources of electricity virtually obsolete. But the atom contained profound secrets, and not all of them have yet been disclosed. There are a number of types of practical reactors, and only research and experiment can determine which is best. To date atomic energy has been more costly than energy produced from the conventional fuels.

In the foreseeable future, the bulk of electricity will come from conventional fuels, with nuclear fuels an important and growing supplement. Nuclear energy, for the time being at least, will be produced most widely in areas where electric costs are relatively high, because of remoteness from fuel sources or some other inescapable cause.

Meanwhile, seven nuclear power plants are presently in operation, and three more are scheduled to go to work this year. Two more still will follow in 1963. Many other such projects are in the planning, design and test stages. The investor-owned electric companies, working with the Atomic Energy Commission, equipment manufacturers, and other interested parties, are making the most of the opportunity. The going program is the world's most advanced and comprehensive in this astonishing field, in spite of all the ballyhoo we have been given by public power advocates about Russia's wonderful power development.

Two Faces Of Auto Safety

There are two sides to the traffic safety picture, which continues to look gloomy for 1962.

One is the actual size of the toll taken by accidents. Through August, the nationwide figure was 25,910 deaths, a 9 per cent increase over 1961.

Based on incomplete September returns, the National Safety Council claims we could be headed for a record year in traffic deaths — somewhere near the 41,000 mark.

Pennsylvania has been following the trend this year, after several years of pace-setting for major driving states. Through August, there have been 1,024 deaths in the Commonwealth, a 10.3 per cent increase over 1961.

If the death toll can take such a dramatic bounce upward, what good are all the safety programs and safety legislation?

That's where the second, more optimistic side of the picture comes into play.

The number of vehicles on the road and the number of miles traveled keep going up, and this increases the possibility of accident. Yet, the number of traffic deaths per 100 million miles traveled has decreased steadily.

National Safety Council figures on this death rate tell the story:

In 1921, with a million vehicles traveling 550 million miles, there were 13,900 deaths for a death rate of 25.

In 1946, with 34 million vehicles traveling 341 billion miles, there were 33,411 deaths for a death rate of 10.

Last year, with 76 million vehicles traveling 735 billion miles, there were 38,000 deaths for a death rate of 5.

This stands as a tribute to the better engineering of roads and cars, the increased attention paid to safety education, stronger traffic safety programs in states like Pennsylvania and more diligent enforcement of the traffic laws. But the death rate has jumped to 5.1 through the first two-thirds of 1962, and that is why the Council is worried. Pennsylvania's death rate is running about 3.7.

If there is any answer to this traffic safety program, which grows more complex each year, it's to avoid complacency about what has been accomplished and to continue the legislative-educational-engineering-law enforcement approach that has helped to cut back the death rate down through the years.

Governor Lawrence has made traffic safety a cornerstone of his Administration's list of accomplishments. He built on a program initiated by Governor Leader, and he built well. Governor-elect Scranton will have to continue this emphasis on traffic safety if the State is to stay even, much less make more progress.

The Republican Future

The past election has come up with three Republican Governors who are possible Presidential candidates in 1964. It has also killed off a presidential possibility, Richard Nixon, who talked himself out of public life by an uncontrolled display of bitterness in defeat. Americans are not supposed to take their defeats too seriously.

The three Governors are Rockefeller of New York, Romney of Michigan and Scranton of Pennsylvania. About Nelson Rockefeller we know a great deal. He has been in the public eye since the Franklin D. Roosevelt Administration. He is politically keen, an able administrator but over-eager. Thus his philosophy of life or of politics is not clear except that he regards himself as a "liberal."

It grows increasingly difficult to know what a "liberal" is. President Kennedy and Nelson Rockefeller are "liberals"; so how will they contend against each other? It could only be on two grounds: 1. Rockefeller can say that he would do the thing more efficiently than Kennedy; 2. Kennedy will say that he cannot.

George Romney we know nothing about politically except that he was elected Governor of Michigan on an anti-Walter Reuther ticket. He is a businessman. He will have about a year to show what he amounts to. Politics and business are not identical or similar operations. The businessman has greater latitude, particularly if he has a successful operation. The politician deals primarily with the control of men. He is chosen by a vote; he exists by popular goodwill.

William Scranton comes from an old Pennsylvania family after whom the city was named. He, like Romney, will have a chance for about one year to establish a record as an administrator.

I say a year, because after that he will be a candidate and will have to act like a candidate which is very different from acting like an administrator. Whether you like it or not, candidates do and say many things that represent forensic exaggerations.

For instance, I do not know what Governor Rockefeller likes to eat, but surely it is not kish. Yet, he goes into parts of New York where kish and heavy garlic sauce are prevalent and he eats it to show that he can mingle with all kinds of people. It makes for popularity. It establishes him as a good guy.

In discussing candidates for 1964, we must not forget Barry Goldwater. He has built an enormous personal following, particularly in the South and the West.

Certainly, Barry Goldwater will not be ignored in the 1964 Republican Convention. He may not get the Presidential nomination but any candidate would be pleased to have him as a Vice Presidential candidate because he would be an asset.

So the Republicans stand in 1962 as regards to 1964. Much can happen between now and then, but the consensus is among the professionals in both parties that in 1964 John F. Kennedy will be re-elected. It would take a national catastrophe to bring on his defeat.

Despite the fact that newspapermen find many ways of joking about him and despite the further fact, that fault can be found with him as impetuous or as too slow, about not being able to make up his mind or as being too temperate in his language or manner, he nevertheless is very popular with the American people as the vote in the 1962 election showed.

If he can maintain this popularity until 1964, no one will be able to defeat him for a second term. An unpopular war or a harmful depression during the next two years could help the Republicans.

Because of this situation, possible Republican candidates for the Presidency will think twice about 1964. Each will do everything possible to keep his name before the public in every part of the country, but as they get closer to convention time each will consider whether he will sacrifice himself. Both parties have learned that bringing out a candidate two or three times to be defeated is hopeless.

A candidate once defeated is not likely to be acceptable on another day. In four years, the public can develop a new hero. It all depends upon how a man behaves himself in defeat, of course. Politically, the best example of a come-back in popularity is Adlai Stevenson, who twice defeated for the Presidency, is making a splendid record as our representative at the United Nations.

Alarming Footprint

The Pennsylvania Story

Scranton's Appointments

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — It hung like a thin thread in the air; an almost tenuous thread — and then ever so gently there was a snap; the thread parted.

It was a pattern those around Pennsylvania's Capitol Hill were watching as a clue to the incoming administration of Governor-elect William W. Scranton. By and large an answer was found, for the moment at least, in this gentle snap.

The incident involves one of the first formal moves of Mr. Scranton as Pennsylvania's incoming chief executive — not so much the move itself but the background and implication in the move.

Earlier in the week, it will be recalled, Mr. Scranton designated Philadelphia's Walter B. Alessandrini as the new State's Attorney General — top legal post in the Commonwealth. This move in itself was not too astounding for Mr. Alessandrini not only served as Mr. Scranton's campaign manager but is generally regarded as one of the most outstanding barristers in the state, on the basis of his record alone.

However what is significant is this:

Last week one State Senator M. Harvey Taylor, from local Dauphin County, let it be known that he was "suggesting" that Mr. Scranton consider the appointment of State Superior Court Judge Robert E. Woodside (also from Dauphin County) to the post of Attorney General.

Now heretofore within the realm of Pennsylvania GOP politics a "suggestion" such as this from the 86-year-old Mr. Taylor almost invariably resulted in the suggestion being considered tantamount to being a fait accompli; unquestioned compliance.

The lordly Mr. Taylor nobly represents the so-called "Old Guard" element of the Republican Party in the Keystone State; the element that during years of GOP (political) success ruled the roost.

It was Mr. Taylor and his brood (including Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association President James F. Malone) who in the GOP primary scrap in the spring sought unsuccessfully to hammer across the gubernatorial candidacy of Mr. Woodside, but it was Mr. Scranton (to their utter consternation and dismay) who gained the nod.

The point to be made is that throughout the strategy fiddlings leading up to Mr. Scranton's ultimate selection as the party's standard-bearer — and up to the November 6 election — there persisted the strong question as to whether the Scranton Administration would be "just another" of those Old Guard GOP administrations.

Mr. Scranton had given strong indications, to this columnist at least, that if elected Governor he would indeed call his own shots as he saw fit, not as seen by the political cronies of yesterday.

That of course was before the election — and during the campaign.

However Mr. Scranton's apparent reaction to the "suggestion" by older Taylor (re the appointment of the venerable Mr. Woodside to the Attorney General's seat) at first blush at least seemingly would bear out this prognostication by the then GOP gubernatorial candidate.

However it is far too early as yet to know just how far Pennsylvania's incoming Governor actually will go in this direction. His reaction though to the elder Mr. Taylor's "public" suggestion "which used to be tantamount to a finalization; who would 'dare' to flaunt the great leader in the Senate?" is perhaps indicative of more stringent things to come, insofar as the harping political old pros are concerned.

Perhaps Mr. Scranton's allowance to this column privately during the campaign that he "might well go out of office as one of the most unpopular chief executives in Pennsylvania's history" is indeed being borne out early.

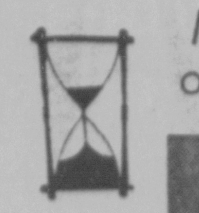

Up to this point at least, the tenuous thread has been snipped! Other threads however are being woven.

For the Cold One flew into my room that night, Stone cold for ten thousands of years. And His hands were of ice but His soul was fire. My eyes told the night of my fear.

Try and Stop Me

A fond father was hurrying up the pathway to greet his 4-year-old daughter, busy playing at watering the lawn. Without warning, she turned the hose on him, drenching him thoroughly. Her alibi was inspired. "Oh, Daddikins," she dimpled. "I thought you were a FLOWER!"

Veteran's Guide

Q — What are the requirements for the VA War Orphans Education Program?

A — That (1) the death of the veteran parent be due to service — connected causes originating in either wartime active duty, or in peacetime active duty since September 16, 1940, until the Universal Military Service and Training Act terminates; (2) that the son or daughter in question be between the ages of 18 and 23 (exceptions may be made in certain cases); (3) that the courses pursued must be above high school level but they can be either college material or vocational training; and (4) that the son or daughter must consult with a VA counselor to select a goal and develop a program of education. Note: The remaining parent of the child may still be living without changing the definition of "orphan" for purposes of this law; the son or daughter may be married or single and still be considered an "orphan" for purposes of this law; the courses are not limited to college work but can be vocational subjects leading to an occupational goal.

Washington, November 15 — Red China is dicker for another huge purchase of Canadian grain — this time 2.5 million tons.

Last year Peiping bought 4 million tons of Canadian wheat and other grain, plus several million tons from Australia, New Zealand and France. Canada's delivery of its portion of these immense purchases is to be completed by July 1963.

Cost of the proposed new Canadian grain is approximately

The Allen-Scott Report

Peiping Negotiating For Canadian Grain

$225 million, with shipments to run into 1964.

On this deal the Peiping Communist rulers are vigorously pressing for easier terms. Last year they paid 25 per cent down, with the remainder in 273 days. Ottawa is asking the same arrangements.

But the Reds are proposing a 10 per cent down payment, with the balance in two or three years.

They are advancing three arguments in support of this offer: Red China has become Canada's largest grain buyer; all payments have been met on schedule, and Australia is giving Peiping easier terms on a new big purchase.

Recently, Australia sold the Communists another 500,000 tons of wheat for 10 per cent down and the balance in 15 months. France also has sold more grain to the Reds, but details are still unknown.

So-called "informal" discussions on the contemplated 2.5 million-ton purchase have been underway in Ottawa for several weeks. While nothing has been said about them publicly, they are no secret to the U. S., and India and other British Commonwealth countries.

Trading With The Enemy — With U. S. support, India is protesting Canada's proposed new sale of vital grain to Red China.

Both the U. S. and India have "suggested" to Prime Minister John Diefenbaker that he either call off these backstage negotiations, or use the Communists' urgent need for grain to pressure them into halting their menacing aggression against India.

These efforts have gotten nowhere with Diefenbaker.

His response has been that this is a business transaction strictly between his country and Red China. In other words, he has politely but emphatically told the U. S. and India, "Mind your own business."

Fully supporting him in that stand are Britain and Australia. Basis of Australia's attitude is self-evident. That British commonwealth already has sold about one million tons of grain to the Communists, and apparently hopes to sell more. Britain has sold a number of airliners to the Chinese, and doubtless aspires to sell more, as well as other things.

While objecting to Canada's selling more grain to Red China, neither the U. S. nor India raised any complaint against Australia and France doing so. Also, neither have they done anything about Canada's completing its present shipments to the Communists.

For Diefenbaker these huge agricultural sales are a major political factor.

They have played a crucial role in his party's retaining the support of the so-called "prairie vote." As his government is now holding power only by a narrow margin, this farm backing is vital.

So far, only the Social Credit Party has denounced these grain sales.

The Liberal Party, headed by Lester Pearson, winner of the 1957 Nobel Peace Prize, has kept silent on the issue.

U. S. Agricultural Department experts reached a startling conclusion in an exhaustive study of future food production in Red China: By 1980 that country will be utterly unable to feed its constantly soaring population unless drastic measures are taken to curb it, or the present collectivized agricultural system is radically changed.

The study concludes that neither of these essential remedies is likely to be instituted.

Foreign Flashes — Blas Roca, top hard-core Communist leader in the Castro regime, is in Moscow conferring with Khrushchev.

Roca attended the Congress of the Bulgarian Communist Party that "unanimously" backed Khrushchev's policy in Cuba. "India and Yugoslavia are negotiating a new trade agreement under which their exchange of goods would be considerably increased. No arms are involved in this deal."

Sweden has allocated $1 million for foreign aid in the Far East, chiefly to India, Pakistan, Indonesia and Burma. Most of the funds will be used to provide paper for printing much-needed school and textbooks.

Yugoslavia, which has received around $2 billion in economic and military aid from the U. S., is now extending foreign aid of its own. Yugoslavia is offering long-term credit to Tanganyika for the purchase of 300 tractors.

Inside You And Yours

Sound Ideas On Hearing Aids

By Burton H. Fern, M.D.

You've been had! All that money for a hearing aid that brings in only garbled static! No wonder! You didn't consult your doctor or ear specialist first.

Like eyeglasses, hearing aids have to be tailored to your particular needs. An ear examination and hearing tests can tell.

You might have ear trouble that needs treatment — a wax-filled canal or lingering infection. Other tests would show whether sound vibrations are blocked before reaching the inner ear. It changes waves into nerve signals.

Inner ear or nerve trouble plagues senior citizens. Hearing aids can't always help this kind of hearing loss.

Audiograms Tell Story Special audiograms can measure whether your loss is limited to treble or bass or both and how much aid you'd need to hear spoken words clearly.

If you want to try a hearing aid — and your doctor agrees — he can refer you to a hearing aid center. Here technicians try to fit you with the best aid for your problem.

Don't expect normal hearing from your hearing aid. When it magnifies sound, the quality changes slightly. You'll get used to it.

Start Slowly After living in a half-silent world for years, everyday noises may annoy you. Start slowly, with the volume turned w a y down. Then gradually tune in on the world.

Try the hearing aid for a few weeks before purchasing it. When you're convinced it's the one for you, set it aside. If you miss it, it's time to buy.

It's Hidden

Don't live in a silent world because you're ashamed to wear a hearing aid. It can be hidden in eyeglass frames, costume jewelry and tie clasps.

One that shows may save you costly upkeep. When people see it, they'll naturally raise their voices — often so loud you can turn off your hearing aid!

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of this newspaper.

Dear Abby

Room For Belief!

DEAR ABBY: Last night, while I had bridge club, my husband went to a drive-in movie. When he came home at 5 o'clock in the morning he said, "Now don't get mad at me. I fell asleep at the drive-in movie and nobody woke me up." Can this be true?

GRAND SLAM

DEAR GRAND: It is ridiculous enough to be true.

DEAR ABBY: I was told not to wear black to a wedding. I went out and bought a new dress, although I had a perfectly good (new) black one in my closet. When I got to the wedding, two out of five women were wearing black dresses. The wedding was at 7:00 p.m. Please answer in the paper. I want to settle this with someone.

ELKHART

DEAR ELKHART: If it gives you any satisfaction to know that YOU were more appropriately dressed than the women in black — here it is.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the 15-year-old girl who signed herself SLAVE because her mother asked her to do a few chores around the house.

I, too, felt that I was being imposed upon because my mother insisted that I help with the housework. Now that I have a home of my own I am sorry I didn't learn more under my mother's supervision. Do you know how to mop and wax tile floors? And how to polish furniture properly? Can you wash and iron your husband's shirts? Do you know how to clean an oven? And defrost a refrigerator? Do you know what to do if a fuse blows? Can you buy groceries in the right amounts? Unless you can answer yes to all these questions, don't complain.

YOUNG WIFE

DEAR ABBY: I would like to know what you think about a 16-year-old girl buying her boyfriend a shirt that matches her blouse. He is 18 and we have been going together for about a year.

FAITHFUL READER

DEAR READER: Don't "surprise" him with it. Ask him first.

About Town

A farmer bought a driving horse from an honest seller who said that it was a fine mare but when she passed a covey of quail she would invariably point like a dog for a moment and then trot on. The farmer opinioned: "That's fine with me. No other farmer for miles around has a pointing horse."

The next day he hitched the horse to his rig and drove along until he came to a small brook whereas the horse reared up, left the road and promptly sat down in the brook.

The dazed farmer walked to the nearest phone where he called the horse-seller and told him what happened.

"Oh I forgot to tell you," said the seller, "He not only points for quail but he sits for trout."

Pocono Joint Board Votes To Renegotiate Bond Issue

SWIFTWATER—Pocono Mountain Joint School Board last night voted to renegotiate its bond issue at 3% per cent interest, compared to the present 4% per cent—a saving to the district of $117,000 in interest.

The board was told that building rents will not be increased as a result of the renegotiation. Three resorts in the jointure district—The Inn at Buck Hill Falls, Onawa Lodge and Pocono Manor—agreed with the action of the board in protesting Act 561, the school redistricting law.

Clifford R. Gillam, general manager of Buck Hill, wrote the board:

"The tax level at present is a deterrent to those purchasing resort homes and Act 561 will affect the economics of the area included in the jointure since it is basically 90 per cent resort business."

A contract for snow removal at the junior-senior high school was awarded to Russell Nauman, of Mt. Pocono.

Depending upon the equipment used, the jointure will pay Nauman $6.25 an hour for a dump truck and plow, $5.55 an hour for a three-quarter ton truck with plow, 6.50 an hour for a tractor-loader with plow, $6.50 an hour for a dump truck with cinder spreader and two men and $1.64 a square yard for cinders.

The board approved requests from Joseph Murray, athletic director, for removal of a building from the Tannersville School property to the jointure athletic field for use as a first aid station and for equipment storage and grading of a field adjoining the football field for use as a practice field.

Four persons—Robert E. Wilson, Mrs. Betty Mae Hitt, Harold Kreck and Mrs. Claire Cross Redmond—were added to the substitute list. The balance in all funds as of Nov. 1 was reported $97,931.99.

4 Injured In Accident Near Zion

FOUR PEOPLE were injured near Mt. Zion last night at 7 p.m. on Legislative Route 45078 in a head-on collision in front of the home of Mrs. Jennie Kresge State Police, Stroudsburg barracks said last night.

The injured are Robert L. DeHaven, 30, of East Stroudsburg, RD 3; his wife, Lillian L. DeHaven, 27; Francis Mohn, 18, of Easton, and Elma Malazzo, 19, of Bangor. All were taken to the General Hospital of Monroe County for treatment and then released.

Robert DeHaven was treated for a laceration of the nose and lip. Mrs. DeHaven received a laceration to her forehead. Francis Mohn treated for a laceration to his left knee, and Elma Malazzo was treated for laceration to her face and left leg.

Police said Mohn was traveling west on L.R. 45078 with Miss Malazzo as his passenger and DeHaven and his wife were traveling east. Both vehicles were approaching the crest of a hill and both were across the center of the highway. They crashed head-on at the crest. Damage is estimated at $200 to the Mohn vehicle and $850 to the DeHaven car.

The investigation will be continued today.

PV Sets Up Standard Lunch Fee

BRODHEADSVILLE — Pleasant Valley Joint School Committee voted last night to make a standard charge for lunches purchased in the hot lunch program and to charge an additional sum for second portions.

The action was taken following a long discussion with Mrs. Laura Halliday, vocational homemaker, and the committee members.

In other action, the committee voted to rent the vocational agriculture building at Polk Township to Everson Electric Co., Allentown. The rent is $60 per month and the lease is for one year. At the end of the first year the lease and rent are open for negotiation by both parties.

Harry Young, supervising principal of Elementary schools in the jointure, reported the need of an additional physical education teacher in Polk and Chestnut Hill Township schools. The teacher will not be hired until next year and he will serve both schools.

To Refinance Bonds

The joint committee was notified that the joint school authority will meet Monday, Nov. 19 at 9 p.m. to discuss and consider refinancing the bonds on the new high school.

The authority has been informed that there is a very good possibility in saving an amount of money in excess of $100,000 by refinancing the bonds.

No Serious Guam Injuries

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Red Cross said on Wednesday it has received assurances from Guam that no U.S. military or civilian personnel were injured seriously or killed in the typhoon that devastated the island.

Robert C. Edson, national director of disaster services for the Red Cross, said a preliminary damage survey by Red Cross staff members showed that 5,000 homes were destroyed and 3,000 badly damaged by the Sunday storm.

Parole Violator Returned To Jail For 11 Months

CLARENCE W. Nolan, 38, Washington St., East Stroudsburg, was committed to Northampton County Prison yesterday by Judge Fred W. Davis who found him guilty of parole violation.

Nolan will serve the remaining 11 months of a nine to 23-month sentence imposed in 1961 after he pleaded guilty to burglary charges. He was arrested last Saturday by East Stroudsburg police on disorderly conduct charges.

Bloodmobile Collects 108 Pints

The Red Cross Bloodmobile collected 108 pints during a visit yesterday at Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church.

The total, unusually large for the Stroudsburgs, came from 114 donors, of whom six were deferred for various reasons.

Red Cross volunteers said they were pleased with the response, particularly the number of women who volunteered blood.

The total was reached despite the fact that the Bloodmobile broke down en route to Stroudsburg and was late arriving.

E-Burg High Senior Play Tomorrow

THE Senior Class of East Stroudsburg High School will present "Three Blind Mice," a three-act comedy by Guy Bolton, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium.

The plot is centered around three sisters in search of rich husbands, and their adventures in an exclusive Miami Beach Hotel.

The characters include: Candy Kohn, Joanne Motts and Janice Eschenbach, as the three sisters;

Andy Gelinas, Rick Altomose, John Wingerter, Otto Tomash, Thomas Riedmiller, Ruth Savage, Lucille Lorenzet, Pat Lyon and Carl Stabenow.

The set design chairman is Nan Meyers, Lynn Allen is in charge of publicity, and Joe Zacharias is student director.

Two Deeds Are Filed

TWO deeds were filed yesterday in the office of Mrs. Jeannette F. Batory, Monroe County register and recorder:

Mary E. Williams and Fred W. and Margaret A. Faustick, Hamilton Township, to Joseph W. and Helen A. Heckert, same address, two properties in Hamilton Township; Evan P. and Irene H. Koch, Polk Township, to Donald P. and Meryl Ann DePue, same address, property in Polk Township.

Illinois Adopts Ban On Poll Tax

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Illinois became Wednesday the first state in the Union to adopt a proposed U.S. constitutional ban on poll taxes.

The Illinois House of Representatives approved the resolution by a 150-12 vote. The Illinois Senate had adopted it earlier.

Approval by 39 states is necessary before the ban on poll taxes can become effective.

Ralph Harry Smith, Easton, RD 4, who had just completed serving a sentence in Northampton County Jail, was returned there by Judge Davis to start a one to 23-month sentence for malicious mischief using explosives.

Smith was sentenced Sept. 10 with the sentence to be computed from his release in Northampton County.

Smith was charged by State Police with using firearms to blow open telephone coin boxes in Monroe and several other counties in both Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Judge Davis indicated he will consider parole for Smith at the end of his minimum term if he is assured that restitution has been made for the amount taken and the damage done to the coin boxes.

Toys For Tots Collection Sites Named

TOYS FOR Tots collection barrels will be stationed at the Famous Store, East Stroudsburg Post Office, and in the Acme and Giant Stores, Stroud Township Shopping Center. S/Sgt. James Shafer said last night.

As was done last year a table with a Christmas tree will be placed in the Wyckoff Store, Stroudsburg, where toys may be deposited. S/Sgt. Shafer said this location was ideal last year. Many people were kind enough to purchase small toys, have them gift wrapped and placed under the tree.

He added that this year there would be two telephone numbers available to give information on home pickup. The telephone number in Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg Area is 421-3050. The phone number for residents in the western end of Monroe County is WY 2-4788.

Art Center Planning Construction

POCONO Art Center is discussing plans for the construction of its art center which will be located on 10 acres of land in Monroe County.

The auditorium, when completed, will seat 300 people. The stage will serve indoor and outdoor presentations. There will be an area called the Japanese Tea Room where food may be obtained.

Also included in the plans are areas for workshops in pottery, painting, sculpture, weaving, dance, graphic arts, exhibition hall, restaurant, and a children's nursery.

3 Area Residents Charged In Burglaries In Wayne

HONESDALE—Three area residents have been arrested by State Police and charged with a series of burglaries and larcenies going back to last September.

They were identified as George A. Williams, 49, and William L. Davis, 36, both of Honesdale, RD 2, and Daniel A. Kenyon, 19, Honesdale, RD 3.

They were committed to Wayne County jail in default of bail after pleading guilty of illegal possession of deer before N. C. Farnham, Honesdale justice of the peace.

Trooper William Bluff of the Honesdale State Police station, said Williams will be charged with five counts of burglary and one of larceny; Kenyon, one count each of burglary and larceny and Davis with parole violation.

Bluff said Kenyon, picked up Monday night, was found to have a bag full of deer meat in his possession. Under questioning, the trooper said, he admitted participating in a series of burglaries and thefts and named Williams and Davis as his accomplices.

A check of Williams' property, Bluff said, uncovered a quantity of car transmissions, car and truck tires, carpenter tools, power lawn mowers, beaver traps, automobile turn signals and a heating stove.

Bluff said Williams admitted taking the articles from a number of establishments in several Wayne County townships, but that none of the trio could remember where or when the burglaries and thefts occurred.

Party Heads Against Big Count Crowd

THE Daily Record yesterday contacted David Price, Democrat party chairman, Monroe County, and Parke Unangst, recognized as chairman of the Republican party in Monroe County by the county commissioners, to obtain their views on who should be present at the counting of absentee and military ballots Friday.

David Price said, "I see no reason for any group or individuals, other than the party chairman, to be present at the counting of the ballots."

"I have the highest regard for the Monroe County commissioners who also serve as the county election board."

"A large group is unnecessary and will only add to the confusion," he concluded.

Parke Unangst said, "I do not object to a group being present but I see no need for them to be there. I do feel that the chairman of each party should be present and if any of the candidates involved wish to be there they too should witness the count but as for a large group again I say there is no need for it."

Friday at noon 315 absentee and military ballots will be opened and counted by the county election board.

Locally there is a close race for the seat in the general assembly. The candidates are Van D. Yetter, Democrat, and Gerald Snyder, Republican.

The unofficial count in this race gave Yetter a 246 vote margin over Snyder.

Today at 10 a.m. election officials and the district attorney will open two machines to obtain correct figures in the election.

Polk First

The first machine to be opened will be in Polk Township. The reason for opening the machine is to determine how many votes James Van Zandt received. The unofficial ballot listed 165 and the official ballot showed no votes for him.

The second machine in the western district of Coudersport Township will be opened at 11:30 a.m. Here the official ballot showed 119 votes for Yetter and the unofficial ballot noted 199 votes.

On hand at the opening of these machines, in addition to election officials in the district, will be John R. Lesoine, Willard Quick, Stanley Rader, all members of the county election board; David Price, Democrat party chairman, Monroe County; Parke Unangst, Republican party chairman, Monroe County, and District Attorney James Marsh.

Two Fined For Game Violations

TWO Pocono Pines men were fined for game violations before justice of the peace Emma Mervine, Mt. Pocono, on Tuesday. The men had been arrested on Nov. 3 by game protector John Spencer.

Harrison Moyer, Sr., 51, was charged with possession of four deer in closed season. He was fined $100 and paid $9 costs after pleading guilty.

Harrison Moyer, Jr., 28, was charged with killing three deer with the use of an artificial light. He was fined $500 and paid $18 costs. The usual fine of $100 for each deer was doubled in this case because of a previous offense.

Planes Search For Four Men

DUBOIS, Pa. (AP)—Airplanes, helicopters and ground teams continued a search Wednesday over northwestern Pennsylvania for a plane that disappeared with four men aboard.

Thirty-one private and Civil Air Patrol planes made 45 flights, and three helicopters flew five missions. A CAP spokesman said "several hundred" took part in the ground search.

Wednesday's search was spread from DuBois northward to the New York line, but special emphasis was put on the hunt in Elliott State Park in Clearfield County and an area six miles east of DuBois.

The plane took off Saturday night from Ithaca, N.Y., bound for DuBois. The occupants were pilot William Lane, William Milliren, Eugene Hicks and Matthew Smith, all of the DuBois area.

Since 1947 When He Entered Congress

JFK Contributed Government Salaries To Charity

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has contributed all of his government salaries to charity since 1947 when he entered Congress, White House sources said Wednesday.

In line with this, informants said, Kennedy will contribute his $100,000 presidential pay to charities this year, as he did last year. However, the 1961 salary didn't quite hit that total since he was not inaugurated until Jan. 20.

Kennedy is doing the same as another wealthy president before him, Herbert Hoover, did three decades ago.

Kennedy is able to pay his own personal expenses because of identical trust funds set up by his multimillionaire father, Joseph P. Kennedy, for all of his children in 1926, 1936 and 1949.

At the time of Kennedy's inauguration, his press secretary, Pierre Salinger, told newsmen that the President had an income of about $500,000 a year—about $100,000 after taxes—from the trust fund investments.

Newsmen calculated that figuring an average return of about 5 per cent on the investments, a $500,000 annual income would represent principal of around $10 million.

Step-By-Step

Kennedy and his brothers and sisters get control of the principal in their trust funds on a step-by-step basis.

Actor Seen Quite Serious

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Charles Laughton, hospitalized since July 30 with cancer, remained in what was described as quite serious condition Wednesday.

Laughton, 63, entered Cedars of Lebanon Hospital for surgery on a collapsed vertebra but physicians disclosed in early October that he was suffering from cancer of the spine.

Thanksgiving Service

A COMMUNITY Thanksgiving service will be held in St. Paul's Lutheran Church at Craig Meadow, route 209, on Wednesday evening, Nov. 21 at 8 p.m. There will be special music. The Rev. Jonathan Klieck, D.D. will preach the sermon. The public is invited.

When he was 40, Kennedy received title to one-fourth of the principal invested for him. When he reached 45 last May he received another 25 per cent.

Informants told about Kennedy giving his government salary to charities over the years in response to questions about a copyright story to that effect by Fletcher Knebel of the Washington bureau of the Minneapolis Tribune and Des Moines Register. While the White House did not comment officially on the story, sources close to the President said the report was true. But they would not identify the charities.

Pregnant Mothers Cautioned

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) —If you're pregnant, your medicine cabinet may be one more danger in an already dangerous world for your unborn child.

Many drugs—from hormones to pain killers—may increase the risk of birth defects in the rapidly-developing embryo, Dr. F. Clarke Fraser of Montreal's McGill University said Wednesday.

To be safe, no pregnant woman should be given a drug for a nebulous reason, he said. Drugs should only be used if they are necessary to her health.

There have been cases in which synthetic hormones, given to pregnant women in an attempt to prevent spontaneous abortion, have produced defects in the sexual features of the baby, he told a science writers' seminar of the National Foundation at the University of Michigan.

Recently, the widespread use of the tranquilizer, thalidomide, in Europe produced a crop of infants with stunted or missing limbs.

In animals, Dr. Fraser said, a wide range of drugs has created birth defects. Although it is difficult to prove what drugs harm human babies, the evidence is strong enough to suggest caution to pregnant women in using many medicines—from cortisone to aspirin.

More and more evidence shows that the baby, seemingly protected within the mother's womb, is heir to many of the ills and stresses suffered by the mother.

Cortisone may produce a cleft palate. Radiation can produce genetic damage directly to the egg cell or to the developing embryo. Vitamin deficiencies also produce defects.

Eastburg Teachers Host New Honor Group Members

THE East Stroudsburg Area Joint Teachers Association sponsored a reception for the newly elected members of the Ruth Flory Chapter, National Junior Honor Society, Tuesday night in the Home Economics Department.

Refreshments were served by the older members of the chapter to teachers and parents of the members. Approximately 60 persons attended the reception.

The new members of the chapter are Eileen Barthold, Ave Marie Cassell, Deborah Fredrick, David Heller, Bertha Mae Dailey, Joe Lantz, Deborah Stann and Diane Kintner.

PSES Urges Signup For Holiday Jobs

NOW is the time to register for holiday employment, John P. Dougherty, manager of the Stroudsburg Local Office of the Pennsylvania State Employment Service, reminded citizens in this area today.

At the same time he urged employers to keep his office at 408 Main Street informed of their special worker needs during the holiday season as well as of all their job openings throughout the year.

"The local PSES office maintains lists of qualified workers in all fields," Dougherty stated. "Through its testing procedures PSES guided applicants to the jobs for which they are best suited."

Dougherty noted that among persons already registered for holiday work are many college students who will be available for work during combined term and holiday vacations. Holiday workers also will come from the ranks of the unemployed and from housewives not usually in the labor market, he said.

Both full and part-time workers will be needed by local businesses and industries during the holiday season, the PSES office manager asserted. There will be openings for sales clerks, stock clerks, delivery personnel, general clerical workers and persons in other categories in the wholesale and retail trades, he added.

Domestic Workers "Holiday preparations and parties often result in our office receiving calls for an unusual number of domestic workers also," Dougherty said. "These jobs vary from a few hours to several days."

In urging a minimum of delay in registering either for jobs or for workers to fill openings, Dougherty reminded both prospective job applicants and employers that Stroudsburg Local Office is part of the Bureau of Employment Security, a government agency, and as such is operated as a public service with no charge to those using its facilities.

Talent Show Slated For South Wayne

NEWFOUNDLAND — The Senior Class of Southern Wayne Joint School has set January 12 as the date for its Talent Show and Square Dance, an annual event looked forward to by everyone.

Those who have talents and wish to audition should contact Donna Bartleson, Dawn Zacharias, Shirley Jones, Jim Lee or Yvonne Rochfort. The ticket-making committee includes Joan Bancroft and Donna Bartleson, and the refreshment committee includes Michael Newcomer, Bob Duty and Eddie Strada. Ticket sales are under the direction of Edith Webster, Rose Morris, Dolly Miller and Mrs. Katharine Miller.

A square dance will follow the show, after the awarding of prizes to the winners.

Tension Is Increasing Over Cuban Situation Again

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Tension is rising over Cuba again.

The Soviet Union has not kept its promise to arrange for adequate inspection to reassure the United States about offensive weapons on the island.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson has inferentially opened the back door for revision or cancellation of President Kennedy's promise not to invade Cuba if the agreement was carried out. He said the United States would never give any pledge fortifying communism against the action of free men anywhere.

The President, in what many observers considered a mistake, failed to qualify the no-invasion agreement with a reference to future provocations either by the U.S.S.R. or by the Cuban regime.

The Soviet Union, therefore, has tried to shift the burden for compliance to Castro. Castro accepts it. The music goes round and round. Just as it has gone so often when the Soviet Union has agreed in principle to inspection at one point or another, only to vitiate the whole subject when it came down to details.

In the meantime the American people, who so applauded the very accurate estimate of their government that the Soviet Union would not dare flout the missile ultimatum, are asking pointed questions.

What license does the Soviet Union have to bargain over matters which solely affect the Americas, such as Guantanamo? Does this license lie solely upon a Soviet estimate that, once having accepted United Nations mediation, the United States hesitates to put it aside?

If you get the drop on a burglar on your front porch, do you let him walk away with his gun and then argue from a distance about whether he had a right to be there?

The matter of the United Nations goes to another very serious point. You can feel a new cold draft blowing into the warm spot Americans have tried to keep for the United Nations.

Another question being raised is why the Washington administration thinks 30 days or 100 days or 1,000 days are enough in which to maintain a blockade against new aggression by the same people who staged the old one.

Fortcoming
Answers to some of these questions may be forthcoming.

The administration admits it has not won a decisive victory yet. It has been waiting to see if, operating from a position of great strength, reasonable restraint will achieve the objectives from which it says there will be no retreat.

In the face of this, and in the face of the impatience being shown by the American people through their questions, Soviet Premier Khrushchev and Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro still think they are in a position to argue.

They may find that to be a bigger mistake than the shipment of the missiles in the first place.

A United Nations delegate refers to what is going on as a chess game.

It's no chess game.

Altier Granted Patent

RALPH O. Burrows, principal of the East Stroudsburg Area Joint Senior High School, yesterday received word that William J. Altier, Jr. of the graduating class of 1963 was informed by the U.S. Patent Office that he was granted on October 2, 1962, a patent for the Means of Controlling the Effective Resistance of Piezoelectric Quartz Crystals.

William, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Altier, Star Route, East Stroudsburg, was graduated from Lafayette College with a B.S. in Chemistry in 1957.

On December 8, he will receive his Masters Degree from Pennsylvania State University in Chemistry. Altier has accepted the position of General Manager for McCoy Industries of Mt. Holly Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Altier plan to make their home in Carlyle where Mrs. Altier is employed as a teacher.

Farmers Oppose Reorganization

GREENSBURG, Pa. (AP)—The Pennsylvania Farmers' Association added its voice Wednesday to the opponents of the state's 1961 school reorganization law.

The association adopted a resolution at its annual meeting, saying the law is not feasible for sparsely populated farm areas. The resolution calling for the act's repeal said the school population limits in the law would make school districts too big and thus pose transportation problems.

The association, representing 10,800 Pennsylvania farm families, also passed a resolution opposing Project 70, the state's park and recreational area development program. The document said good farm land would be taken over by the state.

The association believes the state now owns enough nonfarmable land for parks and recreation areas.

In other business the group re-elected G. A. Biggs of McConellsburg to his sixth term as president.

Optimists Pay Tribute To Youths

THIRTY-SIX Optimists and boys attended the local Club's First Youth Appreciation Week celebration held at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Edward Hoffner, club president, presided and discussed meeting with the local youths.

Robert Wetzel of the WSN WKAP Radio staff, Allentown, also an active member of the Allentown Optimistic Club was the speaker of the evening and congratulated the local club, one of the newest in Zone Six, for a good start and an active program.

He said he was "Thrilled" to see the excellent publicity and fine program carried out by the local club since its formation ago.

Wetzel said that statistics prove that only 5 percent of our young people can be classed as juvenile delinquents. The remaining 95 percent are interested in the future and living with an eye on tomorrow.

The capabilities of these youngsters must be recognized and thus such meetings throughout the country during Youth Appreciation Week sponsored by Optimist Clubs.

Must Reach Out

He said cliques don't click and youth must reach out and become a part of a community. He said one can see a lot through a knot hole and cited Colonel John Glenn as comparatively unknown and from a small station in life could see a lot. If you would really click, don't clique—one who would have friends must show himself friendly. The Optimist slogan is "Friend of the Boy."

Wetzel closed his talk with: "I want no better advocate to make my final plea than just some boy who'll say, Gee, he did a lot for me."

Oil Royalties

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP)—Foreign companies operating Iraqi oil fields paid the government the equivalent of $62.4 million in royalties for the third quarter of 1962, the Iraqi news agency reports.

The club and guests were reminded that Youth Appreciation Week, The Oratorical Contest for boys and bicycle safety week were among the important events sponsored annually by Optimist Clubs.

The boys' work committee of the local club was responsible for Tuesday's meeting and promotion, of Youth Appreciation Week.

Monroe Public Assistance Program Dips In Month

(Record Harrisburg Bureau)
HARRISBURG — Expenditures for operation of Monroe County's public assistance program declined $14,410 during September when compared with the preceding month's costs.

Total expenditure for the program in September, according to the State Department of Public Welfare, rounded out to $38,297—as compared with $52,707 spent in the county during August.

Medical costs accounted for most of the decline — $13,137. A breakdown shows the September expenditures, with August costs listed in parenthesis:

Medical assistance for the aged, $2,249 ($5,583 in August); hospital care for old age assistance recipients, none ($4,319); aid to disabled public nursing home care, $141 ($141); school medical care, $38 (none); other medical care, $719 ($6,241).

Assistance grants in Monroe

County during September totaled $31,182 to 757 persons, a decline of $897 from August's $32,079 to 793 countants.

Administration costs for the public assistance program dropped $376 from $4,344 to a current $3,968.

The two volumes of the "Domestic Book" of 1096 are on display in London Public Record Office Museum.

Hamilton Twp. Residents Organize Citizens Group

A GROUP of citizens of Hamilton Township recently met in Snyder'sville to discuss and make plans for the establishment of a unit to promote the welfare of the township.

The group plans to meet with the township supervisors at their next meeting Monday, Dec. 3, in the fire hall in Saylorsburg.

A spokesman for the group last night urged all residents of the township interested in the project to attend the supervisors' meeting.

Science At Work

Psychological Costs Of Isolation

Early man and psychological costs of isolation figure in science news. Costs of Loneliness Playmates of the same age may be more important to a child's development than mother love if studies of rhesus monkeys apply to humans.

Dr. Harry F. Harlow and associates of the University of Wisconsin have been observing development of monkeys, from birth onward, when some were deprived of their mothers, kept separated from playmates, or both. The monkeys, like human children, go through a relatively long period of development. The experiments were described in Scientific American.

Monkeys suffered severe psychological and emotional problems if they had no contact with other animals, the psychologist reports. They engaged in aimless conduct or compulsive habits which actually inflicted self-injury. Some children in orphanages turn to similar types of behavior.

Less Severe Similar, but less severe, symptoms occurred in young monkeys receiving adequate maternal care but kept from association with monkeys of their own age. If allowed to have playmates, while deprived of mothers, they also developed strange behavior but against the playmates that in monkeys with no social contacts at all.

If, under age six months, the isolation from social contact was lifted, the monkeys soon improved. Hidden History

A scientific expedition is turning up evidence that man lived and hunted in the Western Hemisphere as long as 32,000 years ago.

Digging in the desert 10 miles north of Las Vegas, Nev., scientists have found charcoal, believed to be from campfires, which radioactivity analysis shows to be 26,000 to 32,000 years old. Dissected bones of mammoths, camels, horses and bison indicate ancient man hunted and ate such prey.

Dr. Richard Shutler Jr., anthropologist of the Nevada State Museum, is leading the museum's Tule Springs expedition. The search for hidden history is being speeded by a 32-ton motor scraper cutting away layers of clay, silt, gravel and other material. Through precise hydraulic controls, it can remove only a few inches of earth cover at a time. When interesting finds turn up, expedition members go to work with pickaxes, shovels, brushes and trowels.

Chamber To Meet Monday

THE regular monthly Board of Directors meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be held on Monday, Nov. 19 at 11 a.m. at the Penn-Stroud Hotel, Stroudsburg.

Following the Board meeting will be the luncheon meeting of the full Chamber membership. The speaker will be J. L. Cohen whose topic will be "Problems of Small Business".

Reservations may be made by calling the Chamber office — 421-2901.

Cashier Named As Bank Robber

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP)—An assistant bank cashier, who has identified a young dairy farmer as the masked gunman who held up a Bradford County bank March 26, 1959, was subjected to lengthy cross examination in federal court Wednesday by attorney Joseph E. Gallagher.

Gallagher is counsel for Paul J. McCarthy, 32, of Bently Creek, Bradford County, whose retrial on the armed robbery charges opened Tuesday afternoon before Chief Federal Judge Michael H. Sheridan and a jury of 10 men and two women.

The bank aide, Mrs. Anna V. Whitney, was the second government witness. She expressed the opinion that McCarthy and the gunman are one and the same person. Under cross examination however, she stated she had not identified McCarthy to state police as the gunman who made off with $2,219 from the First National Bank of East Smithfield, but had only described the bandit.

Pocono District's Scouts Hold Combined Roundtable

A COMBINED Roundtable of Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, and Explorer leaders of the Pocono District, Boy Scouts of America was held this week at the Arlington Heights Elementary School.

John G. Stark, Ass't. District Commissioner, conducted the combined portion of the meeting which included the showing of a motion picture entitled "Operation Ivy" furnished by the Monroe County Civil Defense Headquarters.

Mr. Milton S. Lippincott, National Council Representative of the Delaware Valley Area Council, and Chairman of the Council's Protestant Committee on Scouting, spoke to the group on the values of the Religious Awards program in Scouting. He stressed the need for the adult leaders of Scouting to urge their boys to work toward obtaining these awards in the Church or Synagogue that they attend. Mr. Lippincott further pointed out that the Religious Award should not be considered a "side line" but an important part of a boy's advancement and personal development in Scouting.

Presents Key

Victor Hoehne, District Commissioner, presented the "Scouters Key" to Asher W. Resh, Scoutmaster of Troop 81, East Stroudsburg Methodist Church, in recognition of his completion of three years as a Scoutmaster and all the training courses available for this position. Mr. Hoehne also presented certificates to several Scouters present for having recently attended the "Showando," a training course at Camp Weygadt. Banners were presented to those units that participated in the Council Jamborette at Camp Weygadt in October.

Jack Swinford and John Neuman headed up the Cubbing Session of the Roundtable, which included a discussion of the Cubbing Theme for December entitled "The Magic of Christmas." William Sheeley, headed up the Boy Scouting section of the Roundtable, which followed the Boy Scouting Theme for December, "Fit for Tomorrow."

Telstar Lecture Available

THE BELL Telephone Company announced yesterday that a new film slide lecture on Telstar—the versatile communications satellite—is available for presentation to Monroe County clubs and other groups.

Bell said numerous local organizations have inquired about presentations relating to Telstar and that the new lecture is designed to meet this need.

Arrangements for presentation of the lecture can be made by contacting Bell's business office at 20 South Seventh Street, Stroudsburg.

Telstar I was launched July 13 from Cape Canaveral and it has been used to transmit live television programs, telephone calls and data between the United States and Europe.

Reactor May Be Key To Learning

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A large-scale undersea nuclear reactor could be a key to man's understanding of "inner space" and to his further use of the earth's natural resources, Westinghouse Electric Corp. said Wednesday.

The reactor is now in the preliminary design stage at the Westinghouse Astronuclear Laboratory here.

Westinghouse said the power plant would have no moving parts requiring maintenance and would be able to produce 3,000 kilowatts of electricity for life support and operational activities in an undersea community.

The reactor plant would use thermoelectric elements to convert the heat of fission to electricity and would be capable of withstanding pressures two miles below the sea's surface.

Richard C. Cunningham, manager of the compact reactor systems department, said the capacity of the undersea powerplant would be sufficient to handle the normal residential needs of 6,000 persons.

The reactor plant would be 46 feet high and 20 feet in diameter. There would be no pumps to circulate water for cooling purposes. Water would boil in the reactor core, or fuel charge, and would circulate naturally by thermal convection to the thermoelectric elements mounted near the top of the reactor vessel.

"The study indicates that the undersea reactor could operate on an unattended basis and at full power 18 months and at reduced power levels at least six more months," Cunningham said.

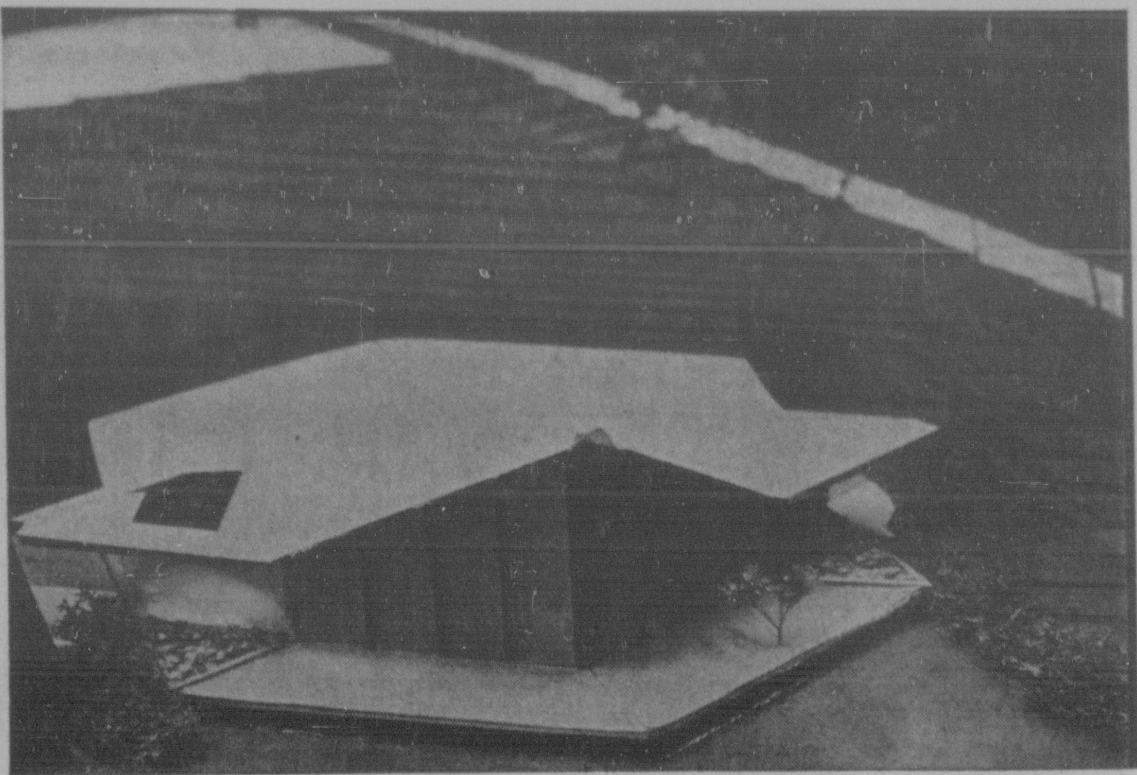

Weather Outlook For Five Days

Extended forecasts for Nov. 15 through Nov. 19.

Middle Atlantic States — Temperatures will average 2 to 7 degrees above normal. Rising temperatures will be followed by cooler about Sunday or Monday. Precipitation amounts will average less than one-third of an inch occurring as showers over the weekend.

Eastern Pennsylvania, Southeastern New York, New Jersey—Temperatures are expected to average near normal over the eastern half of the region and three to eight degrees above normal over the western portions. Continuing on the cool side to Friday with a moderating trend over the weekend and a return to cooler on Monday. Precipitation may total less than one-tenth of an inch over eastern portions and less than five-tenths of an inch in the west as rain mostly over the western sections about Saturday night or Sunday.

Western Pennsylvania, Western New York—Temperatures will average 4 to 6 degrees above normal. Rather mild until turning cooler about Sunday. Precipitation will average one-quarter to one-half inch melted as rain showers around the end of the week and possibly a few rain or snow showers in the mountains early next week.

Territorial Leaders Set To Visit Army's Citadel

COLONEL and Mrs. Frank Wilmer, Field Secretaries from Territorial Headquarters in New York City, will conduct a special service at The Salvation Army Citadel on S. Courtland St. on Saturday evening commencing at 7:45 p.m.

The Citadel band and Junior and Senior Songsters will participate in the service which will be open to the public.

Market Resumes Upward Swing

NEW YORK (AP)—Fueled by some encouraging economic reports, the stock market resumed its upside rampage in another vigorous session Wednesday.

The list was irregularly lower in the early morning as it continued Tuesday's mild spell of profit taking, but the desire to buy overcame caution and stocks moved ahead in heavy trading.

Wednesday's advance was the ninth in 12 sessions.

Government economists were quoted as saying there would be no recession in 1963—and not much expansion either. The U.S. Budget Bureau forecast a deficit of $7.8 billion this year instead of the $500-million surplus estimated by President Kennedy last January. Brokers said that the forecast of a deficit prompted inflationary expectations in the Street.

The market advanced on a broad front—tobacco being lagards—and favorable dividend action helped some stocks. Gains of key issues ran from fractions to 3 points or so.

The Dow Jones industrial average gained 7.37 at 630.48.

The third Tires in the series of weather satellites flashed reports of five Atlantic hurricanes and nine typhoons in the Pacific in 1961. It detected Esther while that hurricane was forming, two days before reconnaissance aircraft located it.

Once New Zealand's economy was based on wool, meat and dairy products. Now the newest industry, aluminum smelting, will be the biggest in the country.

Colonel Wilmer, formerly Secretary for the Western Territory with headquarters in San Francisco assumed his present post in the Eastern Territory on April 3rd, of this year.

In this assignment, Colonel Wilmer is in charge of the placement and assignment of more than 1,000 officers in 350 Corps and Social Service Centers. As Field Secretary he is also responsible for the general welfare of more than 400 retired officers and for the evangelistic program throughout the Territory, comprising the eleven Eastern States. Their visit to the local Corps is in connection with the "Militant for Christ" spiritual crusade presently on in the Territory. He has offices at Territorial Headquarters, 120-130 W. 14th St.

Trained In Frisco

Although born in London, England, Colonel Wilmer trained at The Salvation Army school for Officers in San Francisco and has served in many important Corps and Staff positions including Divisional Youth Secretary, General Secretary and Chief side officer and later principal at the Officers Training School, also Territorial Youth Secretary and Divisional Commander before his present position as Field Secretary, first in the West and now in the Eastern Territory.

Colonel and Mrs. William Bearchell, Divisional Leaders from Scranton, Pa., will accompany the Wilmers to Stroudsburg and also participate in the Saturday evening service.

Notebook Needed For Tax Claims

Editors Note—There are going to be some changes Jan. 1 in the federal income tax law covering expense account deductions. It would be a good idea for the taxpayer planning to claim deductions for expense accounts to keep a notebook handy so he will have a detailed record. This is the first of three articles telling of the tax law changes.

By JACK LEELE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—If you are going to claim federal income tax deductions for travel, entertainment and business gifts, the best investment you can make in 1963 is a notebook.

The Internal Revenue Service, acting under the new 1962 tax law, is going to demand detailed records to support expense account claims.

In the past, businessmen have been allowed to estimate their travel and entertainment expenses and lump them under some general classification such as administration or sales promotion.

The new law, which takes effect Jan. 1 and applies to returns for 1963, will, in the words of Commissioner Mortimer M. Caplin, be "quite demanding."

No deduction will be allowed for any separate deduction claim for entertainment, travel or business gifts of more than $10 unless the taxpayer proves by record or evidence the amount, time and place, business purpose and business relationship between the taxpayer and the person entertained or the recipient of a gift.

The taxpayer won't have to submit the records with his return but he must have them available to support his claim if it is examined.

He will have to produce hotel receipts and transportation stubs. It would be a good idea to have receipts for meals. The purpose and circumstances of the expenditures should be noted in a diary at the time of the expenditure.

One lawyer said he considered the record requirement so stringent that some business men may quit trying to claim Country Club expenses as deductions.

In the first place, to get any deduction at all, the taxpayer will have to prove that club facilities were used more than 50 per cent for business. That means records will have to be kept not only on business visits to the club but on personal visits — including every time the kids go for a swim—to show the percentage of total cost that can be allotted to business.

Wives are liable to miss some of the trips they have been enjoying on expense accounts. Beginning next year, the taxpayer will have to show that her presence serves some bona fide business purpose. Nor will the taxpayer be permitted to take a deduction for entertaining his business guest's wife and children because their expenses aren't directly related to business.

The direct relationship provision is, in some cases, going to be difficult to establish. If a businessman takes another to a football game and claims an entertainment deduction, can he get away with saving they discussed business between halves?

Next: Expense accounts dead?

Education Week

Lifelong Learning Meets Challenge Of Change

(This is the fourth in a series dealing with National Education Week written by David Terrill, an instructor in the East Stroudsburg Area Joint High School. Other articles by local teachers will appear during the week — Editor.)

Education is a bracelet of gold coins which one may trade for bread and for more effective living. Each new educational activity in which we take part, and each new skill we learn, adds a coin to help provide for the years ahead. Too many Americans today have too few of these precious coins.

The "average" American adult has only an eleventh-grade education. Less than half of our adults have completed high school, and only 8 percent have completed college. Yet every adult — whether he has a sixth-grade education or a Ph.D. — must vote, make decisions about community and national issues, and bring up his children wisely.

He must be prepared to cope with job changes. The most striking aspect of the present technological revolution and trend toward automation is an increased demand for professional and skilled workers. These jobs demand a much broader range of education, training, and experience than ever before.

Learning must be lifelong because many things we learned years ago in school are now out of date. Because of the weight of their responsibilities, those with educational advantages have a special need to keep up with the times. The few short years of childhood and youth are not enough to provide learning for the fast-paced years ahead. This is true even though elementary and

Lehigh Gets Another Scholarship

BETHLEHEM — Lehigh University has been awarded a four-year scholarship by The Procter and Gamble Fund for a freshman entering in September 1963, Dr. Charles A. Seidle, university vice president for administration announced today.

Recipient will be selected by Lehigh's Committee on Undergraduate Financial Aid. The award will go to a student who plans to study in the field of engineering or science, and will be accompanied by an unrestricted grant to the university.

Three young men currently studying at Lehigh University under The Procter and Gamble Scholarship program include J. Calvin Nafziger, 101 Lampeter Rd., Lancaster, a senior; Charles P. Eyer, 910 Main St., Stroudsburg, a sophomore; and Arthur Bergantz III, 103 E. Ninth St., Eddystone, a freshman.

Word has also been received from the California Oil Company of the continuation of its scholarship which goes to a student in chemical engineering.

secondary schools are hard at work preparing young people to meet the challenge of our changing times.

Beginning with nursery and kindergarten, where a taste and readiness for learning are encouraged, today's school programs are aimed toward the development of individuals capable of making and carrying out a wide range of appropriate adult decisions. These decisions must result in more effective living as well as in more effective earning.

Is Necessary
Continuing education is necessary if we are to achieve happier and healthier family lives, cope effectively with the problem of increasing leisure time, enrich our cultural enjoyment, maintain sound physical and mental health, and exercise our citizenship responsibilities wisely.

In the area of international affairs, for example, many Americans remain dangerously uninformed on such vital issues as the Common Market, the changing balance of power in the United Nations, and the basic principles of communism.

Modern education has many ways of fashioning new coins for the golden bracelet. For one, we are now keeping students in school for a longer period of time. This is one of the most significant trends in American education. Less than 10 percent of our young people in the 14 to 17-year age group are not in school now as compared with almost 20 percent in 1930 and 30 percent in 1910.

The federal government has a large number of programs for adult education. This includes many opportunities available to men and women in military training. In addition, the Department of Labor recently created an Office of Automation and Manpower to accelerate adult vocational training programs.

Depressed area legislation by Congress appropriates money to finance state and local vocational training classes under adult education. Increasing legislative attention is being given at national and state levels to programs which would help provide at least a basic education, through the sixth grade, for every adult American.

Educational Programs
Added to all of these are the many educational programs for adults sponsored by health and welfare agencies, labor unions, church organizations, business and industry, government agencies, and specialized vocational schools, as well as public and private schools and colleges.

One of the vital roles performed by the public schools is providing citizenship education, both for new Americans and for citizens who realize their need to know more about their government and how it functions. Under the guidance of public-school adult directors, citizens in thousands of communities are working together to tackle such problems as juvenile delinquency, urban deterioration, and unemployment.

Yes, the need is great. There are 62 million adults in the United States without a high-school education. Although our literacy rate is rising steadily, we still had 2.2 percent illiteracy in 1959. At that time, some 7.8 million adults over 25 years of age, comprising 8 percent of that age group, were "functionally illiterate"; that is, one American in 12 above 25 years of age could not read and write even at the fourth-grade level.

Compounding the problem is a substantial school dropout rate. There is about 10 times as much delinquency among high-school dropouts as among those who complete high school. James B. Conant, in Slums and Suburbs, has referred to the dropouts' potential as "social dynamite." Yet, each year an estimated 1.2 million children and youth leave school before the twelfth grade — one-fourth of this number, before or at the completion of junior high school. This could amount to 7.5 million or more dropouts by the end of the decade.

May Determine Future

"How American education solves the problem of school dropouts, rural as well as urban, may well determine America's future," says Daniel Schreiber, director of the NEA Project on School Dropouts. President Kennedy also is concerned with the problem of school dropouts. In a speech the President made when he set up a Committee on Youth Employment, he said: "I am particularly disturbed over the serious plight of the nearly one million out-of-school and out-of-work youth. Our youth are our greatest resources, and the social and economic implications of protracted unemployment . . . demand immediate attention and action."

Educators in many school systems are providing leadership in solving this problem. They are working with business, industry, and welfare agencies to encourage dropouts to enroll in adult high school equivalency classes. Some schools have found it worthwhile to educate the parents of dropouts about the importance of education since parent attitudes toward education are reflected in their children.

Indoor Gardening

By George Abraham

LILY OF THE VALLEY: I'm often asked if it's possible to grow lily of the valley indoors and still get blossoms. Yes, it's possible. You can buy frozen valley plants (called "pips" in the trade), or you can treat your own outdoor plants for winter forcing.

This is another way of saying that the plants will not bloom indoors unless given a low-temperature treatment. How do you give them the cold treatment? Dig the plants now and store at 32 degs. F. or lower for a month or so. Then they may be planted in sand or sand-peat mixture and forced to flower in about 3 weeks.

A high humidity is helpful and you can get this effect by using plastic tents or glass aquariums. Sunlight is not needed. After flowering, keep the plants growing in a bright window and when good weather comes, plant them outdoors.

You can buy frozen lily of the valley pips from flower bulb specialists, just as florists do. The pips may be planted in pots or bowls. A container 6 inches wide and 5 inches deep will hold 12 boughten pips. Make plants every week or 10 days so that you will have blossoms all winter long.

For Christmas flowering, plant December 3rd; for New Year's blossoms, plant December 10th. In other words plant about 21 days before any special date that you wish to have the flowers.

MILLIPEDES: Also called "thousand legged worms", this pest (not a true insect) often enters homes in fall, living in damp cellars. They enter homes in tiny wall cracks or thru cellar doors and spend the winters, feeding on decaying organic matter. Millipedes are harmless, though quite horrifying to a house wife.

Control: Dust some chlordane in the area where you see the pest. Try to chink up any cracks in the cellar wall, also.

Spiders cause a lot of consternation to home owners. Nobody seems to like the pest (including ourselves) yet far from causing any appreciable damage, spiders should be ranked near the top of any list of mankind's friends. Spiders will eat any kind of insect, thus help to keep the insect population in balance. There are more than 17,000 known species of spiders, and probably as many more still undiscovered.

What's the best way to get rid of spiders in the home? Breaking down the cobwebs is only a temporary step. Spraying likely areas with Lindane does a good job discouraging the pests, and hand-swalling is another means for reducing the population.

SAWDUST: Many gardeners were surprised to find that my recent garden handbook recommended sawdust for mulching and composting. They learned that sawdust does NOT poison soils, or make them acid. The only precaution you must take is that you should add some form of nitrogen to the sawdust to offset the temporary shortage that's apt to occur in the soil. Any plant food with nitrogen will do the trick. So, if you have access to sawdust by all means horde it for use as a mulch around shrubs, roses and evergreens.

FREE: Want to know more about sawdust? Send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and ask for a copy of my bulletin, "Don't Let Sawdust Scare You."

ROBINIA: What about the Robinia (Row-Bin-ee-uh) as a shade tree? The advertisements featuring the Robinia don't tell the whole story and could lead to bitter disappointment. The true black locust (Robinia pseudacacia) is a tall tree, 75 feet or so, bearing white, fragrant flowers in drooping clusters in early June.

This is a weed tree bearing dry seed pods in October, November or later. There are several varieties, including Deschain locust, Thornless black locust, Perennial black locust, umbrella black locust, to name a few.

The foliage is thin, hence shade provided is almost negligible. Trees are susceptible to borers which can cause disfigurement or death.

Do not confuse the black locust with the honeylocust (Gleditsia triacanthos) which is a good tree. The thornless types are preferred. The thornless varieties of honeylocust such as "Moraine", "Imperial", and "Sunburst" are becoming increasingly popular as shade and ornamental trees.

Along with the increased planting of these trees you get a corresponding increase in insect problems. This happens whether you raise apples, grain or flowers, and the problem is often multiplied many-fold when stock is propagated by budding, grafting or cuttings since such populations have no "new blood" in them. One of the worst pests to trouble honeylocust is the borer.

Evidence: Exudation of large quantities of "gum" in infested area.

Control: None. Other insects affecting honeylocust include p o d gall, webworm, mite and leafhopper. My suggestion to nurserymen, landscape designers and homeowners is this: Do not use honeylocust and its varieties excessively or we may induce an epidemic of undesirable pests.

Do not overplant any single species. We overplanted the American Elm and now we're witnessing epidemics of Dutch Elm disease and phloem necrosis robbing us of our stately elms.

Question Box

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: C. L. of Stroudsburg: "Please tell me the correct depth for planting trees. Some say to plant them deeper than they were grown in the nursery, others say to plant them not quite as deep. Does it make any difference?"

In planting shade trees (or fruit trees) don't make the mistake of planting too deep. Proper depth cannot be exceeded by more than a couple of inches without risking injury to the tree. A safe rule is to plant the tree the same depth at which it grew in the nursery. You can tell this by examining the base of the trunk.

Note a place where there is a definite change in the color and texture of the bark. Above, the bark is generally rough and weathered; below it is smooth and yellowish. Usually the stem is slightly enlarged from this zone toward the first whorl of roots.

This zone is known as the root collar, separating the stem and the roots. It marks the original ground line, and is the depth to which the tree should be planted. L. S. of Portland: "I followed your advice on Poinsettias and now the foliage is dropping. Buds are forming and I don't understand what's wrong."

Usually whenever you bring a poinsettia in from outdoors the leaves will yellow off or drop, if the roots have been disturbed. For that reason we recommend giving the pot a couple of turns each week while the plant is outdoors. This breaks off the roots and prevents shedding of foliage when the poinsettia is brought inside.

Also a dry soil or too hot a room temperature will cause the leaves to turn yellow and drop. Keep the soil watered and give plant full light. Chances are, the stems will form new leaves by the time Christmas rolls around.

W. L. of Long Pond: "I raise a lot of Tuberous Begonias and have found that mildew can be prevented and controlled by using Actidione. Plants are watered overhead and some even grow in heavy shade, still no mildew. I suggest this material for mildew on begonias, roses and zinnias."

(Green Thumb note: The material mentioned is an antibiotic (cycloheximide) and sold under the trade name of Actidione. It prevents mildew on roses, zinnias, phlox, mums, tuberous begonias and many other ornamentals.)

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Men seem to think that women are the only people who complain about having "nothing to wear." So what do you think about the whole championship football team calling up a little shamefacedly to put off having their pictures taken because both sets of uniforms were at the cleaners?

I still think that a picture of the team in their underwear would be a switch but maybe not the kind to build up an anxiety neurosis in the Slippery Rock team. It's always amazing how the giants of the gridiron dwindle down to mortal size in civilian clothes: big but human big.

It's peculiar how news seems to run in cycles. Today, for instance, we have college news: Marilyn Rutt being chosen queen of her sorority, Chris Anderson winning senior honors at Syracuse, Ruth Ann Boston being engaged and Kathryn Ayers being married.

New, too, is the view of our local college from Brown St. Now that the leaves are off the trees in the early dusk the windows are all lighted, it looks like a little city all by itself—and very impressive indeed, especially to those of us who can remember when Stroud Hall, Oakes Hall, the old gym and the Model School were all there was, and the auditorium big enough to hold all the students was in the attic of Stroud Hall.

It's amazing how quickly the eye becomes accustomed to changes and how hard it is to remember how things used to look. Maybe along with the census a community should have its picture taken every ten years just for the record.

The time will come all too soon when nobody will remember how it was when the streets were paved with brick, the sidewalks were of slate with iron gratings over the coal holes, when each house had a front porch and a lawn with an ornamental iron fence; a summer house on the side lawn, and a pump by the back door.

Miss Ruth Anne Boston

Miss Boston Engaged To Airman

Barrett — Col. and Mrs. Harold Boston, of Mountainhome, announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth Anne, to A-1C Rance R. Brown, son of Mrs. Charles F. Brown and the late Mr. Brown, of Indianapolis, Ind.

The bride is a graduate of Barrett Twp. High School, attended one year at Drew University, Madison, N. J., and is now a junior at Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, Mo.

Airman Brown is a graduate of Oolitic High School, Oolitic, Ind., and of Central Missouri State College. He is now serving in the U. S. Air Force stationed at Whitman Air Force Base in Missouri.

They plan to be married on Dec. 22.

County PTA To Discuss School Act

An open meeting for the discussion of the controversial school reorganization measure, Act 561 will be held on Wednesday night, Nov. 28, at the Pocono Elementary Center School at Tannersville.

Sponsored by the Monroe County Council of the Parent Teachers Assn., the special meeting is open to the public. John C. Litts, county superintendent of schools, will be the speaker with Mr. Litts and Walter Melnikoff, president of the county council, answering questions which may be raised to the best of their ability.

Eldred PTA Bazaar Set

Kunkletown — A bazaar will be held by the Eldred Twp. Parent Teachers Assn. on Friday from 7 to 9 p.m. and Saturday from 2 to 5 p.m. in the auditorium of the Eldred School, Kunkletown.

Numerous handmade articles including baked goods will be on sale. The public is invited.

Hadassah Tonight

Mrs. David Bernbaum and Mrs. Maurice Fleischer are co-chairmen of the annual membership dessert meeting of the local Branch of Hadassah to be held tonight at 8 in the Treaty Room at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Mrs. Sidney S. Munter of Pittsburgh will be the guest speaker.

Local Girl Tapped For High Honor

Syracuse, N. Y. — Among the eight seniors tapped for membership in Eta Pi Epsilon, senior women's honor society at Syracuse University, was Miss Christopher Anderson of East Stroudsburg. The coeds, selected for scholarship, character, leadership and service were serenaded at their living centers by the Society which is the equivalent of Mortar Board.

Miss Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Wile, is chief justice of the AWS Review Board, Senator-at-large for the Joint Student Legislature for the class of 1963, and is vice president of Delta Delta Delta. She is a student in the School of Speech.

Parents Struggle With Strange Alphabet

Anatomink — A special pre-primer with symbols substituted for letters gave the parents of the Anatomink Parent Teachers Assn. a graphic demonstration of how they learned to read at the open house held at the Anatomink School this week.

Harry Anton, principal, in presenting the reading lesson pointed out that most adults can't remember the time when they couldn't read or how mysterious they had found reading in the first place. They found out as progressively longer sentences were presented. They discovered that they had forgotten a word they had learned just a moment before and were threatened with "remedial reading" classes.

Anton in his demonstration stressed the importance of sight reading, phonics and continuity in teaching reading.

The reading session was part of the observance of National Education Week at the school. During the open house the parents inspected the school facilities and conferred with the teachers.

The PTA meeting on Dec. 11 will take the form of a Christmas party with a covered dish supper after the meeting and an exchange of gifts during the social hour.

The PTA also voted to purchase a Christmas gift for the custodian, Albert Pensyl.

It was announced that the pictures of the children would be taken at 10 a.m. Wednesday morning, Nov. 21.

Anton's room won the attendance banner.

Girl Scout Training Session Planned

A training session for troop scribes and Juliette Low representatives of the East Stroudsburg Neighborhood Troops will be held on Saturday from 1 to 2 p.m. in the parish house of the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church.

Plans for the training session were made at the Neighborhood meeting. The importance of having all troops represented was stressed.

Miss Peggy Jean Davis, staff advisor showed a film on "The Troop Committee at Work." Girl Scout Calendars are being sold by the troops with all money and unsold calendars to be turned in by Dec. 15. Monroe County Girl Scouts are pictured on the calendars of January, April, May and July.

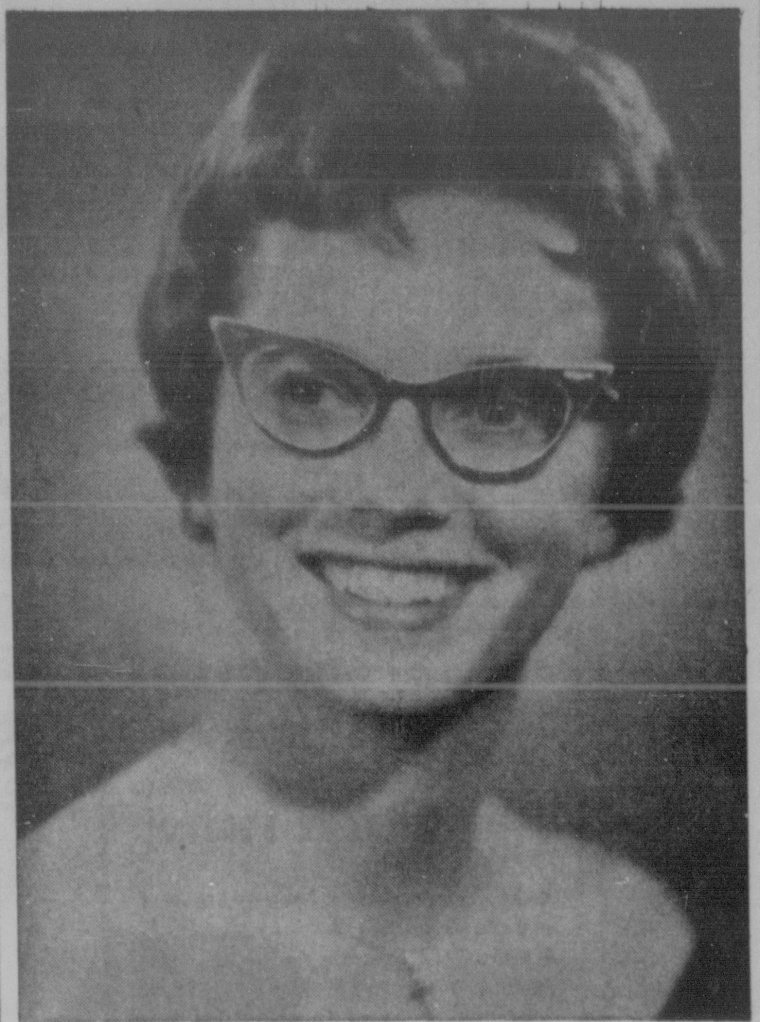

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Lulu Wittaker, Mrs. Harry Howell, Mrs. John Place, Mrs. Floyd Shively, Mrs. Ray Ellenberger, Mrs. Frank DePuy, Mrs. Norman Mosher and Mrs. Singer.

exchange gifts. Those without pals will also bring a small gift for exchange.

Mrs. Eloda Gershard was appointed representative to the Children's Home at Salisbury; Dorothy Miller, representative to the Home for the Aged at Harrisburg; and Mrs. Dorothea Shively, delegate to the General Assembly meeting in Scranton in June.

QUEEN OF HER Sorority is Marilyn Jane Rutt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merlin J. Rutt, 624 Bryant St., Stroudsburg. A senior majoring in history, Marilyn was chosen 1962-63 queen of Epsilon Beta Chapter of Theta Chi at Lycoming College. She is granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Rutt, Stroudsburg and Mr. and Mrs. Leon L. Mitchell, Honesdale.

Miss Kathryn E. Ayers Bride Of Ralph Wescott

Miss Kathryn Elizabeth Ayers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Ayers, Jr., of 1017 Chipperfield Drive, Stroudsburg, was married on Oct. 27 at 3 p.m. at St. John's Lutheran Church, Stroudsburg, to Ralph Hiller Wescott.

He is the son of Roy R. Wescott, of Delaware Water Gap.

Rev. William C. Leopold performed the ceremony before an altar decorated with white mums and white chrysanthemums. Mrs. Ralph Bender, Jr., was organist and Edward Yost served as acolyte.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress of white satin brocade with long sleeves coming to points over the wrists; a simple bodice and full skirt with two deep pleats in both the front and the back. The back pleats crossed at the floor-length hemline. Her waist-length veil was attached to a queen's crown of pearls. She wore pearl earrings and a single strand of pearls which were her grandmother's and also carried her grandmother's prayer book with a white orchid surrounded by white carnations and a shower of carnations and ivy.

Miss Donna Ayers was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were another sister, Miss Nancy Ayers, and a cousin, Miss Janet Collins, of Bethlehem.

The maid of honor wore a street-length dress of pumpkin satin made in the same style as the bride's with a circle hat and nose veil, and a strand of pearls, the gift of the bride. She carried a cascade of yellow carnations and chrysanthemums.

The bridesmaids were similar ensembles in moss green satin and carried bronze carnations and chrysanthemums in cascade bouquets.

Roy R. Wescott, father of the bridegroom, served as his best man. Ushers were Richard Palmer, cousin of the bridegroom, of Ridgewood, N. J., and John Gale, a cousin of the bride, of Hamlin.

The bride's mother wore a dress of green print brocade with a corsage of yellow roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of bronze green with brown accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Due-Roma Wedding At W. Bangor

Bangor — St. Joseph's Episcopal Church, West Bangor, was the setting for the 11 a.m. wedding of Miss Selestina Delorma Roma, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Roma, of 446 East Main St., Pen Argyl, to Nicholas Due Jr.

Mr. Due is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Due Sr., of 771 North Main St., Bangor.

Rev. F. Vernon Searfoss performed the ceremony with Mrs. Oberholtzer as organist and Mrs. Gloria Broad as soloist.

A reception was held at the Eagles Home in Forks Twp.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of peau satin and Alencon lace re-embroidered with sequins and pearls. It featured a portrait neckline, a panel front applied in the lace, and a chapel train. A crown of pearls and crystals held her four-tiered veil of imported silk illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of cymbidium orchids, stephanotis and dracaena leaves.

Miss Susanne Malone of Pen Argyl, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a long gown of ice blue satin peau with a matching crown of crystals.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Esther Due, Roseto, Mrs. Betty DeVito, Wind Gap, cousin of the bride, and Miss Susan-Palma, of Allentown, wore similar gowns of waltz blue.

The maid of honor carried light pink orchids with lily of the valley, stephanotis and feathers. The bridesmaids carried dark pink orchids with lily of the valley, stephanotis and feathers.

Richard Due, of Bangor, served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Woodrow Bussenger, Pen Argyl, Anthony DeVito, Wind Gap and Merlyn Rice, Bangor.

The bride is a graduate of Pen Argyl High School and the Easton Hospital School of Nursing. She is now on the general nursing staff of the Easton Hospital.

Mr. Due was graduated from Bangor High School and is employed by Deshler's Machine Shop, Bangor.

The newlyweds are now on a wedding trip through the South.

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

The only ones I know who are getting a "boot" out of this ugly weather are the salespeople in our Wyckoff shoe department. And boy, do they have boots. Boots to the right of 'em . . . boots to the left of 'em . . . cowboy boots . . . stadium boots . . . hip boots . . . and the high fashioned boots couture-minded women love, that permit them to teeter over the ice and through mud holes on heels the size of a toothpick.

We have boots all right! The other day, I was walking through our shoe store when Marge Miller and Sadie Gusselt called to me. "Look at the boots," they chortled in disbelief. "We haven't any idea what to do with them all."

I walked back through their stockroom and—(No, that isn't exactly true. NO ONE could have walked into their stockroom. I simply pushed my way in and stood there gasping, a victim of claustrophobia.) There were boots piled so high they touched the ceiling, and stretched in a corridor as far as the eye could see. "And that ain't all," Marge chirped. "The cellar's full too."

No wonder my telephone rang at ten minutes of nine the other morning, and John Grogan happily gave me a weather report. It's SNOWING!" he caroled. "And we have boots at Wyckoff's."

"You can say that again," I moaned. So he did. Maybe there was a chill in my voice that dampened his spirits. I don't know. But suddenly he too thought of ALL those boots in a new light, and he sounded a wee bit less enthusiastic. "Yeh," he said, "we've got boots, what I mean! So you go on the radio this morning and tell our customers that if they haven't boots to come shopping in, to telephone me and a pair will be delivered."

"I can't tell them that, John," I contradicted. "They'd need them today and maybe we don't deliver in their neighborhood today."

John paused to think it over . . . but only briefly. "Like I said, Madalyn, we've got boots. We can fit anybody in any style right now. If our customers want boots delivered I'll deliver them."

Judging from that, he must mean "personally" if necessary. And a lot of our customers, being used to the very best in service, would truly get a boot out of that. For John's sake, I hope the storm abates and the customers can come in for a fitting. Santa and all his helpers have fewer boots than we!

BIG, BIG LINEMAN — William Herrold, 15-year-old Shamokin High School junior, is briefed by assistant coach Robert Torok during game with Minersville at Shamokin, Pa. Herrold, who plays tackle, is believed to be the biggest lineman ever to play scholastic football in Pennsylvania. He's 6 feet, 5 inches, weighs 355 pounds and wears 19 shirt, 52 pants and 13 triple-E shoes. As the team's punter, he averages 50 yards a kick. Shamokin won game, 20-12. (AP Wirephoto)

Picks Navy Over USC

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Five of the top-ranked teams, Alabama, Southern California, Texas, Missouri and Northwestern, see their numbers come up this week in college football's giant "wheel of chance." This week's biggest upset would be Navy's defeat of Southern Cal, a 16-point choice.
Last weeks score: 37-13-7-10.
So here we go again:
Georgia Tech 10, Alabama 7: Vengeance stirs Bobby Dodd's boys to extra effort, but the Tide doesn't yield easily.

Record Field In X-Country Meet

WHEATON, Ill. (AP)—A record field of 33 schools has entered the fifth National Collegiate Athletic Association college division cross-country championship at Wheaton College Saturday.
Heading an array of 26 schools with full five-man entries is Central State of Ohio, the 1960 champion. Last year's winner, Southern Illinois, is skipping a defense to concentrate on the NCAA university championship at East Lansing, Mich., Nov. 26.

Varsity 'S' Meets Tonight

A MEETING of the Varsity "S" will be held tonight at 8 p.m. when a final report on the junior football program will be given.
The report will include a complete financial statement on the program.
Club officers urge all interested persons to turn out to help make this a "get-ready meeting" for the inter-boro game on Thanksgiving Day.

Navy 20, Southern California 14: After two bad beatings in a row, Navy shows the stuff it displayed against Pittsburgh.
Texas Christian 9, Texas 0: The Horned Frogs did it last year with a weaker team; why not again?
Oklahoma 21, Missouri 18: The Sooners, averaging 50 points in their last three games, look like the Wilkinson teams of old.
Pittsburgh 19, Army 14: Another upset for the unpredictable hard noses from the coal belt.
Arkansas 27, Southern Methodist 14: Billy Moore is sparking the Razorbacks into the Sugar or Cotton Bowl.

Michigan State 17, Northwestern 10: The Wildcats are still groggy from the lacing they took at Wisconsin.
Caught Looking
Washington 14, UCLA 10: The Uclans are caught looking ahead to the Southern Cal game.
Louisiana State 20, Mississippi State 0: Jerry Stovall and a tough defense do the job.
Notre Dame 19, North Carolina 7: The Irish continue to roll behind Daryle Lamonica.
Baylor 23, Air Force 19: The fliers are a 3½ point favorite, but don't underestimate the punch of the Southwest Conference.
Dartmouth 20, Cornell 0: Bill King and Don McKinnon make an unbeatable combination in the Ivy League.

West Chester Goes As Iacone Does

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—They have a saying at West Chester State College: "As Iacone goes so will the football team."
Well, Joe Iacone, the 190-pound fullback from Wayne, Pa., has been going well and so has West Chester. The senior line smasher is the state's leading scorer, according to the latest Associated Press survey.
As a matter of fact, he's sitting back with 94 points, 16 touchdowns and two conversion points, waiting to see what his closest competitors, Jerry Bebjl of Slippery Rock, and Toby Barkman of East Stroudsburg do in their head-on meeting Saturday.
Iacone, who despite his offensive prowess is being considered by the pros as a defensive back, has finished his regular season, and his college career, unless West Chester receives a post season bowl invitation. He vaulted into the lead with a five-touchdown splurge against hapless Cheyney State.
Bebjl has 84 points on 10 TDs, 21 conversion points and a field goal, while Barkman, who also may get another chance in a bowl game, has 74 on 12 TDs and 2 conversion points. Slippery Rock and East Stroudsburg meet for the state conference title at Slippery Rock.
Iacone and Bebjl compiled their totals in nine games, while Barkman has been in eight. The closest to the top three are Max Mic-sion, West Chester end with 60, and Larry Kerstetter, a fine back on Susquehanna's unbeaten, untied team, with 56.

Rattlers Maintain Top Spot

Florida A&M, Wittenberg and Southern Mississippi — the top three teams in The Associated Press' small college football poll — maintained their positions for another week as only one of the elite top ten lost last weekend.
Pittsburg, Kan., State, which was tenth a week ago, absorbed a 35-9 shellacking from Omaha and promptly was replaced in the No. 10 spot by Southwest Texas State (8-3-0). The Texans walloped Howard Payne 61-15.
The formidable, all-conquering Rattlers of Florida A&M drubbed Allen 67-0 for their seventh victory of the year. Wittenberg (8-0-0) whipped tough Akron (7-4-0) and Southern Mississippi (8-1-0) trounced Trinity, Tex., 33-6.

Shake Up Squad
DENVER (AP)—The Denver Broncos have shaken up their football squad by putting three players on waivers — defensive halfbacks Justin Rowland and Chuck Marshall, and linebacker Bill Roehneit.

Kist Expects Hard Contest

THE annual inter-boro Thanksgiving Day classic between the Mountaineers of Stroud Union and the Cavaliers of East Stroudsburg is only a week away and both teams are pushing hard in their drills.
Jack Kist, coach of the East-burgers, is one man not taking the boys of Coach Jerry Stulgatis lightly, despite their dismal record of only one win in nine games.
"We realize," says Kist, "that our record (6-3) is better than theirs, but this is always a game that can go either way."

Packers Are Better Than Last Season

NEW YORK (AP)—The figures show that the Green Bay Packers of 1962 are better than the Packers of 1961.
No other club can match the Packers' record of nine wins and no defeats. A year ago they were 7-2 at this stage.
The Packers lead the league in first downs (200), first downs rushing (107), total offense (3,468 yards), rushing (1,809 yards), average yards per rush (5.1), passing completion percentage (61.9), touchdowns (37), touchdowns rushing (33) and points (292).
At this stage last year the Packers had 173 first downs, 89 first downs rushing, 3,170 total yards, 1,602 yards rushing, rushing average of 5.4, passing completion percentage of 57.1, 34 touchdowns, 22 touchdowns rushing and 274 points.
On defense Green Bay is tops with fewest points allowed (61), opponents first downs (110), opponents first downs passing (50), opponents net yards gained (1,746), opponents passing net (950), interceptions (25) and yards interceptions returned (366).
A year ago they led in only one defensive category with 23 interceptions.

Mays Buys House For $85,000

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Giant outfielder Willie Mays has bought a house in a fashionable San Francisco section. The home cost him $85,000—just about his yearly salary.
He is moving into the Forest Hill district, just a few blocks from the San Francisco residence of California Gov. Edmund G. Brown.
Mays has been living in a pent-house apartment since his recent divorce, but decided he needed larger quarters since his father and brother are coming to live with him.
A brief furor arose in 1958 when Mays tried to buy another house and the owner refused to sell because Mays is a Negro. The deal eventually was completed.

TONY Packer is serving his 13th season as basketball coach at Lehigh University.

Bame Is Lineman Of Week

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An agile, 187-pound linebacker for the University of Southern California, Damon Bame, was modestly pleased Wednesday to learn he had been named The Associated Press' Lineman of the Week.

The 5-foot-11 junior from near-by Glendale was accorded the honor off his outstanding performance against Stanford last Saturday in a game that propelled the Trojans another stride toward the Rose Bowl.

"Very Honored"
"I feel very honored but the other fellows played great for us, too," the 19-year-old Bame observed between classes.

Head coach John McKay was pleased, also, but not too surprised. Bame, he pointed out, has been an important defensive factor in the Trojans' unbeaten string of seven games.

Bame, listed as a guard, is actually a linebacker and "twelfth" player on the first team. He is never on the so-called starting or offensive eleven.

In Comes Bame
But as soon as the Trojans go into defense, in comes Bame to replace the starting fullback, Ben Wilson.

He has averaged almost 20 tackles a game. Part of this can be attributed to his favorable position but a larger portion can be explained by his alertness and pursuit.

Bame has been outstanding despite the fact he had never played college varsity football until this fall. He is a transfer from Glendale Junior College and a graduate of Glendale High School.

Penn State's Liske Set To Break Marks

By DAVE LEHERR
UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)—Quarterback Pete Liske is with-in striking distance of three new Penn State passing records this year—and he's still got two games to do it.
Already, the 190-pound junior from Plainfield, N. J., has tied one school mark of nine touchdown passes in a season, shared by Shorty Miller (1912) and Ellwood Petchel (1948).

Other records in jeopardy are most completions in a season—93, set by Tony Rados in 1952—and most yards gained through the air—1,025, by Rados in '53.

Pete is just 15 shy of the completion mark and 193 short of the yardage record, having hit on 78 of 134 tosses for 832 yards to rank as one of college football's top throwers for 1962.

Liske also has an outside chance of shattering another school record—Richie Lucas' 1,238 yards in total offense set in 1959. So far, Liske has run and passed for 1,027 yards.

What is the success secret of this affable young man who spent most of his sophomore year playing defense?

Gains Confidence
"Poise and confidence," he replied the other day in talking over his style of play. "It's been a matter of gaining some confidence in myself."

Ever since the Army game five weeks ago, Pete Liske has proved an outstanding quarterback, getting better with every game.

His leadership is one of the big reasons why the mighty Nittany Lions are being mentioned as a sure bet to land a post-season bowl bid.

Ironically, it was a heavy snow storm during the Maryland game two weeks ago that lent a big hand to Liske.

Runs Well
Forced to the ground, the young quarterback found out he could run, scoring two touchdowns and gaining 80 yards to spark the Lions to a 23-7 triumph over the Terrapins.

"That game proved I could run at least a little," he laughed. "Now I feel the running makes my passing more of a threat."

Head coach Rip Engle also is pleased with Pete's work. "He's a real fine quarterback and continues to improve every week," Engle commented.

Football Can Be Tough On Heart

LINCOLN, Neb., (AP)—A University of Nebraska medical researcher reported Wednesday that watching an exciting football game can do things to your heart.
Dr. Kenneth Rose has the electrocardiograph tracing to prove it. Graduate student Donald Tuch attended the Nebraska-Missouri game here Nov. 3 with electrodes inserted in his skin and an FM transistorized transmitter at his waist.

Dr. Rose, in the nearby field house, received the broadcast messages on how Tuch's heart was behaving. Part of the reception was by electrocardiograph tracing.

Tuch is described as a typically active person with a normal heart. He was a teacher before coming to Nebraska for graduate study. When Cornhusker fullback Noel Martin intercepted a pass and ran 88 yards for a touchdown, Tuch's normal 75 heart beats per minute jumped to 145.

"Donald's distress over such developments as a Missouri touchdown and again when a fumble occurred was dramatically indicated on the receiver," said Dr. Rose. "His heart had a terrific workout that day."

Dr. Rose, of the University's student health center, is in the second year of a 4-year $20,000 research study on the heart action of athletes under a National Heart Institute grant.

Turn In Equipment

ALL VARSITY "S" junior football equipment must be turned in Saturday morning at the Wyckoff recreation center on Sixth St., Stroudsburg, at 10 a.m. The announcement was made last night by Bill Schoonover, commissioner of the program.

Named Manager

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Rollie Hensley, a 38-year veteran of baseball and major league catcher nearly 20 years, was named manager Wednesday of the Indianapolis Indians of the American Association.

'Big Bad John' Is Richmond's Hilton

WHEN the song "Big John" was written the writer could have had John Hilton, the University of Richmond's brilliant junior end in mind. The 6-5, 210-pound Richmonder, closely watched by professional scouts, needs to catch only three passes for four yards in the Thanksgiving Day's clash with William and Mary at Richmond City Stadium to break the mark he established as a sophomore last season.

Hilton, a Richmonder, was named on the All-Southern second team in 1961 and is a leading candidate for loop laurels this year. He's the Spiders' leading scorer with 36 points with five touchdown receptions and three two-point conversion catches. He's been on the receiving end of 24 tosses for 331 yards.

Last season, when he was the SC's top receiver and ranked No. 17 in the nation, he caught 26 for 334 yards and three touchdowns.

Hard To Cover
John is hard to cover. Why? In addition to standing 6-5, his arm measurement from shoulder to finger tip is 40 1/2 inches. And he has big hands — 8 1/2 inches in length.

He has good speed and can leap high, having participated in basketball and track (880) at Hermitage High and Fork Union Military Academy.

He's also a good blocker and is aggressive on defense. Cincinnati passers will not soon forget the manner in which he harassed them all afternoon.

Two TD Passes
Hilton has been particularly effective in UR's last three games. Against Cincinnati he caught two touchdown passes from Quarterback Mel Rideout — five in all for 52 yards. And it was John's catch of Stewart Percy's two-point conversion toss that brought a 21-20 upset victory.

His eight catches for 138 yards in the George Washington tilt wiped out Bob Coolbaugh's record of 103 yards set against VPI in 1959. Last week at Davidson he scored 16 points, catching three and 11-yard TD passes from Rideout and a pair of two-point conversion pitches from Percy.

Had Good Days
Although All-Southern Halfback Earl Stoudt, who broke all kinds of records and scored 26 points in the 36-18 win, was the hero of last year's Thanksgiving Day game, Hilton and Rideout had good days, too. Hilton caught six for 80 yards including a 23-yard TD pass and a two-point conversion toss. Rideout completed 9 of 16 passes for 111 yards.

Richmond, which holds a 34-31-5 edge in the series, goes into the 71st meeting between these two old rivals with a 5-3 record and a four-game winning streak. W&M has a 4-4-1 mark and will be seeking its first win over the Spiders since 1958.

Thank you!

"Your enthusiasm for the 1963 Pontiac and Tempest reaffirms our conviction... this year—above all others—Pontiac points the way! Buyer activity has already marked Pontiac and Tempest as two of the most exciting new cars for '63. Because of this tremendous demand, here and across the country, our factories have been hard put to keep up with the demand. We're sorry if your new Pontiac has been delayed, but new deliveries are promised. And when your new car arrives, we're sure you'll agree this beautiful '63 Pontiac was well worth the delay!"

PONTIAC TEMPEST GMC TRUCKS

This one is for people who don't like this one and aren't ready for this one.

Let's start at the bottom. A lot of people aren't ready for the P1800 simply because they don't know what it is. Road & Track magazine describes it best: "The P1800 is a very civilized touring car for people who want to travel rapidly in style, a Gran Turismo car of the type much in the news these days—but at a price that many people who cannot afford a Ferrari or Aston Martin will be able to pay." You pay over $10,000 for a Ferrari or Aston Martin. You pay $3995* for a Volvo P1800. Now are you ready?

About the Volvo in the middle. You're right. It looks like a '48 Ford. We've spent 22 years perfecting the 544 and we're not about to tamper with it for the sake of style. Its owners like it the way it is. Here's why: The 544 out-accelerates every other popular-priced compact in every speed range, gets over 25 miles to the gallon like the little economy cars, is virtually indestructible and proves it at trade-in time.

The Volvo on top is the 122S compact. It does everything the 544 does. It's prettier, more refined and costs a little more. But that's the only difference.

The main thing is, there's a Volvo for everybody who wants a tough, fast, economical car. Volvo prices start at $2295* complete. All the etceteras (have you priced etceteras lately?) come as standard equipment. Even the whitewalls. *MANUFACTURER'S SUGGESTED RETAIL PRICE EAST COAST POE. LOCAL TAX & DELIVERY CHARGE EXTRA.
